THE ELECTIONS.

A Republican Cyclone Sweeps the Country.

NEXT CONGRESS REPUBLICAN

Morton Elected Governor of New York State by 150,000.

The Anti-Tammany Voters of New York City Overwhelm the Tiger and Elect Strong Mayor and Goff Recorder—Republican Gains In Massachusetts, Ohio, Connecticut, New Jersey, Illinois and Other States—Wilson Defeated and Jerry Simpson Turned Down—New York Legislature Republican—Governor Flower Calls It a Tidal Wave.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The elections have resulted in a great Republican sweep. In New York Mr. Morton is elected governor by more than 100,000 plurality. The Republicans have a large majority in the assembly, and as the senate is already Republican they will have a good working majority on joint ballot.

The Republicans in this state have also gained largely in their congressional delegation, not more than five or six Democrats at most having been elected.

In the city of New York Senator Hill has the astonishingly small plurality of 2,500, while in Kings county Mr. Morton has reversed the plurality of 16,000 given to Mr. Flower and has put that plurality to his own credit, making a Republican gain of 32,000. The entire local ticket is elected in Kings.

The entire anti-Tammany ticket, with Mr. Strong at its head is elected by majorities ranging from 30,000 to 50,000, those for Mr. Strong and Mr. Goff reaching toward the higher figure.

The new house of representatives will contain a Republican majority. Some of the old members defeated are Mr. Wilson, the author of the now celebrated Wilson bill, and Mr. Springer of Illinois.

Chairman Wilson goes down with an adverse parality estimated by Republicans at not less than 1,000. He lost in all the counties, and it is said that the agricultural districts will swell the adverse vote.

In Colonel Breckinridge's congressional district in Kentucky, Owens, the man who beat Breckinridge after a sensational campaign, is said to have been beaten by from 1,000 to 2,000. Breckinridge treachery is said to have caused it.

In Cleveland, where Tom Johnson, the great free trader, conducted a circus tent campaign from ward to ward, is defeated, according to his own estimate, by from 4,000 to 5,000.

Indiana goes Republican. Illinois and Wisconsin also return to the Republican fold. The Tillmanites swept everything before them in South Carolina. Tillman will go to the United States senate, and the congress delegation will be solidly Democratic.

Iowa Republicans elected the entire state ticket by 50,000 plurality, with the exception of two judges of the supreme court. The Democrats saved one of the 11 congressmen.

Blood to the Bridles Waite, the Populist governor of Colorado, who was a candidate for re-election, was buried under a Republican plurality of 20,000. The vote was heavy, and the women took a large and active part.

In Minnesota the Republicans re-elected Governor Knute Nelson, but by a greatly decreased majority, Owen, the Populist candidate, making unexpected gains. The remainder of the state ticket split up, each party electing a part of The Republicans elected four of the seven congressmen, the Democrats two and the Populists one.

Louisiana has probably sent a solid Democratic delegation to congress, the planters' bolt having failed in the effort to carry the state for the Republicans. To the race issue they attribute their defeat.

The Next Congress.

The next congress will be Republican. The following table shows a conservative estimate of the makeup of the house. The senate will probably remain Democratic.

The Democratic plurality in the present house is almost 100, the Republicans having only 126 members. The Republican plurality in the Fifty-fourth congress will be at least 40, and it may reach 50.

The Populists have not held their own and may be reduced by late returns to less than half a dozen members.

The Republicans not only elect a large majority of the members of the house, but also carry more than a majority of the states by delegations, thus securing not only the control of the house and the chance to re elect Mr. Reed speaker, but the possibility of selecting a president of the United States if the candidate of 1896 should fail to receive a majority of the vote in the electoral college:

MORTON ELECTED.

New York State Republicans Also Get the State Legislature.

ALBANY, Nov. 7.—The story of a political cyclone following a landslide of a year ago marks this election in New York state. The most sanguine political observer had failed to find in the past election indications of anything that would allow a precast of such a result as completes the battle of the ballot in this state. Even those who believed in the success of the ticket that places victory at its top today were but sanguine of the usual result of depreciated majorities below the Harlem for the dominant party there and increased majorities above that river's banks for the party of the majority in that section, and the most sanguine of these people expected that the Democratic party, with Senator Hill at its head, would show recuperation from the vote given for Maynard in 1893.

In place of all anticipated results comes a sweep of such proportions and from such quarters that even those who profit by it are amazed. From a plurality ranging from 65,000 to 120,000 in the district below the Harlem for the Democratic party the Republican party turns it into 20,000 plurality for themselves. In all the estimates given on the eve of election it was conceded that the Democratic plurality below the Harlem would be at least 35,000.

And the surprises are not confined to this tremendous change of votes. An analysis shows that Senator Hill will run far behind even the memorable and exceedingly retrograding vote of Judge Maynard, while in the state he hung closely to the pace set by Governor Flower in 1891. An analysis of such figures as are obtainable this morning shows that the Republican party alone gained by the increased registration, for Mr. Morton's vote in all of the up country districts shows large gains over the Fassett vote of 1891, while the Democratic vote is not cut in any great measure from its hitherto normal condition. In the cities this same increase in registration appears to have been detrimental to the Democrats, for in a great many cases in strong Democratic quarters there were many votes.

Hill's Own County Against Him.

The vote in Albany county was one of the many surprises of the election. For years Albany county on state or national issues has been looked upon as a reliable Democratic stronghold, good for from 1,000 to 2,000 Democratic majority. The Democratic managers, in view of this fact and that it is also the home of Senator Hill, looked for a majority of not less than 2,500. The result in the county was hailed by the Republicans with the wildest expressions of delight, while the Democrats were frank in their expressions of disappointment and disgust.

It is claimed by Governor Flower and Clerk De Freest of the state committee that by reason of the large registration and the number of ballots to be voted 80,000 Democratic voters were unable to cast their ballots.

That the depression caused by tariff or national matters had little to do with the general result was evident from the fact that in manufacturing districts there was no very large deflection from the general run of voting. But there were individual counties where the vote was perplexing by the way in which it deflected. Albany county led these. A Democratic stronghold, with few manufacturing interests, it had held true to its principles, and in wavering times such, for instance, as last year, gave normal Democratic majorities of from 1,800 to 3,500. Despite the fact that it is the home county of the Democratic candidate, it gives Mr. Morton a plurality.

In Monroe, with its Republican city of Rochester, the natural Republican plurality was almost doubled, late figures giving Morton 6,000, while in 1891 the same county only gave to Fassett 3,800. Rensselaer county, the home of Senator Murphy, stuck as closely to Democratic principles as any in the state, which was rather surprising in view of the sentiment that had been appealed to by the death of Robert Ross. The county only fell off about 800, while its neighbor, Albany county, lost at least 2,600.

Onondaga had been expected to throw a great many votes to the Democratic party because of disappointment in the ranks of the Republican party, but while the vote of the Republicans showed a falling off there was no appreciable gain for the Democrats by the deflection. Erie county repeated its performance of last year by giving Republican majorities, and this leads to the finding of the further fact from the face of the returns that in no instance were there those signs of recuperation that had been promised by the Democratic party leaders for their party. Otsego county doubled for Morton the majority it gave Harrison and trebled that it gave Fassett. Chemung paid its tribute to Senator Hill by sticking pretty closely to its normal vote, especially in Elmira city. St. Lawrence county crawled up over 2,000 on its Fassett vote in favor of Mr. Morton. Westchester falls into line with a big majority for Mr. Morton, and Niagara county trebles its Fassett plurality.

Amendments Probably Carried.

The results of the sweeping victory are more farreaching than simply the election of the Republican state ticket. While the returns are very incomplete on the constitutional amendments, it is highly probable at this writing that all of them are adopted. The percentage of loss as compared with the vote for the head of the ticket is not nearly so large as it was supposed to be, and the result, therefore, is that the legislature will consist of 50 senators and 150 assemblymen; that pool selling on races will be prohibited; that the canals will be improved; and that a new judiciary system will be inaugurated. The sweep also means that for the first time in many years the Republicans will have control of the state legislature and at the same time have a governor in the chair in political harmony with them.

In addition to all these decided gains the state congressional delegation, being changed materially, acts in a pivotal sense, and it may be said that with the election of a majority of Republican congressmen New York state throws control of the national legislature into Republican hands.

Senator Hill for the present positively declines to give his views on the result, saying that he would talk later when he had had time to look over the figures.

"A Tidal Wave," Says Flower.

Governor Flower gave out the following statement: "The election shows that a tidal wave of Republicanism has swept the country from Maine to California. Our party was dilatory in repealing the silver bill and tariff law. Business has been disorganized, and when the tariff bill was passed no one seemed willing to father it or call the question settled. The result shows that business men have voted the Republican ticket in order to give their interests a rest.

"The result in New York city and Brooklyn shows that the people want a purer and better government for those cities. The result shows that Senator Hill's vote and Mr. Wheeler's combined would lack over 100,000 of carrying the state."

TAMMANY'S DOWNFALL.

Strong Elected Mayor by 40,000, and Goff Is Recorder.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Tammany is defeated. The nominal majority of 60,000 usually polled by that organization in New York city has been obliterated, and an opposition nonpartisan majority of

WILLIAM L. STRONG.

40,000 to 45,000 has been piled up, making the net opposition gain more than 100,000. Never since 1871, the year in which the revelations concerning the operations of Tweed were made, have the people been so thoroughly aroused against Tammany Hall, and the returns show that a severe blow has been struck at the foundation of the most powerful local political organization in the country.

Two years ago the Rev. Dr. Parkhurst delivered a sermon in his church, the Madison Square Presbyterian, in which he charged Tammany with misgovernment in all the departments of the city and particularly charged that the police administration was corrupt. He was elected president of the Society For the Prevention of Vice, and then began a remarkable crusade against Tammany Hall. He maintained that disreputable houses in the city existed by connivance of the police: that gambling houses and other places of evil reputation paid money to the police for protection. His course was so extreme that some of the best citizens publicly stated that his ardor for reform was ill advised, and they deprecated the means he had adopted to prove his assertions. Not in the least deterred by the flood of adverse criticism he had evoked, he pursued the course he had mapped out for himself. He would point out to the authorities the existence of an illegal resort. The police would report that the place specified did not exist. Then the society of which Dr. Parkhurst is the head would procure warrants and raid the place.

In many instances the proprietors were convicted on the evidence of the society, thus conclusively proving that the police were making no attempt to uphold the law. The fight was waged with great bitterness.

At the last session of the legislature the matter was laid before the senate, with the result that a committee was appointed to examine into the various New York city departments.

John W. Goff, who has been elected recorder on the independent ticket, was selected as counsel to the committee. The result of his labors was the presentation of evidence which, in the popular mind and in the expressed view of the New York city and state newspapers, implicated police officials in corrupt practices. The campaign culminated in the creation of a committee of 70 citizens, and under its leadership a concentrated political movement was directed against Tammany Hall, in which the Good Government clubs, the Civil Service Reform association and the local Republican organizations joined in indorsing a nonpartisan ticket headed by William L. Strong for mayor and John W. Goff for recorder.

A feature of the canvass on the east side was the part women played in it. Women of the highest social standing formed themselves into an oraganization to aid in the war against Tammany, and they carried the war down into the slums. They were treated respectfully, and their arguments and appeals were listened to courteously. There seems to be no doubt that their action tended in a measure to bring about the result of yesterday's city election.

So complete is the downfall of the great political organization that its nominees for congress are involved in the catastrophe. With the exception of one of its congressional candidates the Tammany congressional candidates have been defeated. Mr. Strong's plurality for mayor exceeds 40,000.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Republicans Elect Hastings Governor by a Majority of Over 150,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—Returns from Philadelphia indicate that Hastings (Rep.) has carried the city by at least 75,000 majority.

Figures from the state indicate a Republican majority of at least 150,000, and it may reach 200,000. The Republicans think they have elected 27 congressmen. Every county in the state shows Republican gains.

The Philadelphia Record, owned by William M. Singerly, Democratic candidate for governor, says today: "Pennsylvania is a Republican state, but the energy of its Republicanism yesterday was something magnificent. Evidently the voters have carried to the account of Democracy all of the ill fortune that has befallen the country as the culmination of Republican misrule, and we suspect there may be hidden under the pile of adverse majorities an A. P. A. reminder. However it all comes about, it is an undoubted sweep."

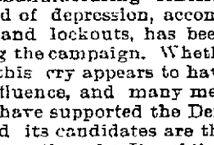
MASSACHUSETTS.

A Republican Majority of Nearly 60,000 Rolled Up For Greenhalge.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—The story of the Massachusetts election can be easily told. The great storm that completely covered the ground with a snow white mantle did not more certainly bury the earth than did the Republican party snow under and crush the Democracy. The triumph of the party of protection is so complete that even the Democratic leaders are stunned at the result. Governor Greenhalge is re-elected chief executive of this state by a majority of more than 60,000. Twelve of the 13 congressmen are Republicans, and the state legislature in both branches is completely under the control of the same party. On account of the storm, which crippled and in some cases destroyed entirely the telegraphic service of the state, returns have come in slowly.



F. T. GREENHALGE.

All reports that have reached this city tell the same story, and that of a Democratic Waterloo. Since the beginning of the campaign the re election of Governor Greenhalge has been conceded by his opponents, the only question being one of majority. Naturally therefore the greatest interest centered in the contest in the different congressional districts. In the present congress Massachusetts was represented by nine Republicans and four Democratic members. In no case was a Democratic congressman renominated, and in only one case has a candidate for congressional honors been successful. Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, in the Ninth district, at present represented by Hon. Joseph H. O'Neill, pulls through, with the lead of perhaps 2,500. In Congressman Stevens' district Candidate Knox (Rep.) is elected by a substantial majority, as is Hon. William E. Barrett in the Seventh district.

A careful review of returns showing the result of the election in the New England states emphasizes the position of mill operators, as the heaviest Republican gains are noted in the manufacturing centers. The recent period of depression, accompanied by strikes and lockouts, has been freely used during the campaign. Whether true or false, this cry appears to have had a marked influence, and many men who in the past have supported the Democratic party and its candidates are this year reported as voting for Republican candidates or staying away from the polls altogether.

CONNECTICUT.

Republicans Elect Coffin Governor and Four Congressmen.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 7.—Returns as far as obtainable from all parts of the state indicate that Connecticut has experienced the greatest Republican landslide in her history. This city has gone Republican. Pigott, the Democratic candidate for congress, who had a majority of over 3,000 last year, is defeated probably by 1,000 majority by N. D. Sperry. Coffin, the Republican candidate for governor, has about the same majority. The town elects two Republican representatives to the legislature, and the senatorial district elects a Republican. The Republican candidate for sheriff is also victorious in the county.

O. V. COFFIN.

New Haven two years ago returned a Democratic senator by a majority of over 3,500 and two Democratic representatives by over 2,000 majority each. Returns from 90 out of 168 towns in the state give Coffin (Rep.) for governor about 10,000 plurality.

The Republican state central committee claims—and the assertion is undisputed—that they have carried the state for Coffin by 10,000 plurality, elected four Republican congressmen, every one of the 24 senators and secured control of the house of representatives by a large majority.

Late returns show that 153 Republicans and 36 Democrats have been elected to the house of representatives. The Republican majority for the entire state ticket is believed to be about 10,000.

NEW JERSEY.

Republicans Will Have a Big Majority In the Next Legislature.

TRENTON, Nov. 7.—The election in New Jersey was a complete overthrow to the Democrats. So far the Republicans have gained control of five of the six senatorial districts which were voted in this year. The sixth is still in doubt. In case Burlington county is carried by the Republicans the Democrats will be without representation in the upper house. In the assembly the Republicans have elected 43 out of a possible 60. Three seats are still in doubt. The difference between the three candidates in Monmouth county is so slight that only a complete count will decide it. At the most the Democrats will not have more than 15 out of the 60 assemblymen.

In the congressional contest the Republicans appear to have carried every district, with the exception of the Seventh. Colonel Edward Stephens will be the only Democrat elected. This is a gain of five congressmen in the state.

The New Jersey legislature will be Republican and have a working majority of 40 or 42 in joint session. This insures the election of a Republican to succeed John R. McPherson. It is not known who will be chosen, but Franklin Murphy of Newark and William J. Sewell of Camden are the aspirants.

The New Jersey delegation to congress complete is as follows: First district, Loudenslager (Rep.); Second, Gardner (Rep.); Third, Howell (Rep.); Fourth, Pitney (Rep.); Fifth, Patterson (Rep.); Sixth, Parker (Rep.); Seventh, Stevens (Dem.); Eighth, Fowler (Rep.).

Colorado.

DENVER, Nov. 7.—McIntyre (Rep.), for governor, will have 15,000 to 20,000 majority over Waite (Pop.). The Times-Sun claims the Republican majority in this (Arapahoe) county will be 20,000, and that the remainder of the state will give a Republican majority of 5,000. Waite has run behind his ticket many thousands. If the Republicans have 20,000 majority on the head of their state ticket, they will undoubtedly control the legislature and re-elect Senator Wolcott. Pence (Pop.) is beaten by Shafroth (Rep.) for congress in the First district. Bell (Pop.) may defeat Brown in the Second district, but his majority of 12,000 two years ago will be greatly reduced. Dispatches from all parts of the state say a very full vote was polled, and in the cities fully as many women voted as men. In Denver and suburbs about 85 per cent of the registered vote was cast. Women worked earnestly at the polls all day for the success of the Republican ticket, and the result is largely due to their effort.

Michigan.

DETROIT, Nov. 7.—Michigan has gone Republican by 60,000. Republicans claim it will exceed that figure, while Secretary Hosford of the Democratic committee concedes the Republican plurality to be 50,000. The Republicans have elected every congressman, notwithstanding the division of districts by what they allege to have been a Democratic gerrymander. Perhaps the greatest surprise to the Democrats was the election of Spaulding over Barkworth (Dem and Pop.) in the Second district by over 2,000 plurality. The legislature will be about four-fifths Republican in both branches.

Nebraska.

OMAHA, Nov. 7.—With 107 precincts received from the state on head, of the ticket the candidates stand: Majors (Rep.), 10,854; Holcomb (Dem.-Pop.), 4,667; Sturtevant (straight Dem.), 665. Same precincts in 1892 gave Crounse (Rep.), 8,693; Van Wyck (Pop.), 6,397; Morton (Dem.), 5,030. Nothing in the way of accurate details on any other part of the ticket will be obtained before tonight. Everything continues to favor Holcomb's election by 5,000 plurality.

SILAS A. HOLCOMB.

Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 7.—There has been a great falling off for the Democratic vote and a gain both in the Republicans and Populists, the latter gaining the most. However, the Republicans will still win if they only hold their own, as the other parties did not entirely join together. It therefore seems likely that Governor Nelson (Rep.) is re-elected by an increased majority over his plurality of 14,000 two years ago. The labor vote has chiefly gone to the Populists, and that party has held most, if not all, of its former strength.

West Virginia.

WHEELING, Nov. 7.—The indications are that West Virginia will send a solid Republican delegation to congress.

The Republican state central committee claims that Wilson is defeated for congress by 1,000. They also claim that Huling (Rep.), in this district, is elected by a safe majority. Dovernos (Rep.) carries the First congressional district. The Republicans are jubilant and claim Wilson's defeat, but the returns from the back counties cannot be got for a day or two. The Democrats are very uneasy.

Virginia.

RICHMOND, Nov. 7.—The returns thus far received from all parts of the state indicate that the Democrats have carried every district. The Sixth is the most doubtful, but the Democrats claim that Otey is elected. In the Second and Fourth districts the Democratic majorities will be very small. The fight throughout the state has been between the Democrats and Republicans, the Populists not being in the battle at all. The returns indicate heavy Democratic losses at nearly every point.

New Hampshire.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 7.—Returns for New Hampshire were never more tardy, but every addition shows increasing Republican majorities. Less than one-quarter of the state is returning, and Republican gains indicate that Busiel will have at least 6,000 lead over Kent. There is no doubt of the election of two Republican congressmen and that the legislature will be Republican by at least 75. The returns in numbers of the legislature are the most complete of any and leave no doubt of Republican victory. The only question now is one of size. Returns from the cities of the state are meager. Four wards in Manchester show a net Republican gain of 579. Senator Chandler, in an interview, expressed himself as highly gratified at the result of Mr. Morton's canvass in New York. With regard to the outcome in New Hampshire the senator declared that the Republican gain as far as reported no more than justified his expectation.

C. A. BUSIEL.

Kansas.

TOPEKA, Nov. 7.—Only meager returns have been received. Page county, a stronghold, is claimed by the Republicans. The Republicans carry Wyandotte county by 2,000 plurality and Leavenworth by about the same figures. All the precincts heard from show Republican gains. Chairman Leland says the returns are exceeding the Republican poll, and the state is surely Republican.

TELLING THE TRUTH

A Well-known Business Man Testifies for Munyon.

W. D. Lovell, the well known real estate broker, of 42 N. Alexander street, Rochester, N. Y., says: "my wife was attacked with severe muscular rheumatism, and was finally compelled to take to her bed. I secured a bottle of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure, and after taking six doses she was able to rise and dress herself unassisted. I have also been relieved of sharp shooting pains after taking a few doses. I considered the cure a marvelous one.

Munyon's Rheumatism Cure is guaranteed to cure rheumatism in any part of body. Acute or muscular rheumatism can be cured in from one to five days. It speedily cures shooting pains, sciatica, lumbago and all rheumatic pains in the back, hips and joins. It seldom fails to give relief after one or two doses, and almost invariably cures before one bottle has been used.

Munyon's Stomach and Dyspepsia cure is guaranteed to cure all forms of stomach troubles and indigestion.

Munyon's Homeopathic Home Remedy Company, of Philadelphia, put up specifics for nearly every disease, which are sold by all druggists, mostly for 25 cents a bottle.

HE WAS NOT STUCK UP

JUMPIN JOE DECLARED THAT HE WAS ONLY A HUMBLE WORM.

But the Wild Eyed Critter He Met Was Skeptical and Made Him to Come Under the Shadow of the Law—$20 Made Things All Right.

I was pushin my way over the kentry, with a view to openin my monster exhibishun and grand aggregashun in the town of Jericho, when a wild eyed critter cums ridin from the direckshun of Plumb Center and stops me to yell.

"Now, then, who gin yo leave to be drivin along this yere road with yer hat on yer ear and yer nose stuck up as if our society wasn't half good nuff fur an ole duffer like ye?"

"My friend," sez I in answer and sizin him up to once as a bad man who was yearnin to pick a fuss with me, "the ways of my hat and my nose ar' not my ways. I am one of the humblest of the humble worms of the airth. I hain't even a-whistlin the toone of the 'Arkansaw Traveler,' fur fear sumbody might suspect me of bein an aristocrat and a-feelin too stuck up to ask him fur a chaw of terbacker. Be varchewus, and ye'll be happy."

"Durn yer pesky ole hide!" he hoots as he glares at me, "but I believe ye ar' the kuss who calls hisself Jumpin Joe!"

"The same," sez I as I bows in my humble way.

"And ye've got a panoramy and an eddecated hog and var'us other things, and ye gin exhibishuns!"

"I do, my friend—trooly I do. I am not concealin the fact that in the midst of life we ar' in death and that my gigantic aggregashun of animal intelligence and monster compendium of fam'ly remedies hev brought joy to the souls of thousands of my sorrerin feller men. As fur instance, I'm offerin a reward of a hundred dollars fur each and every case of"—

"Arter each exhibishun of reptile intelligence ye marry everybody who will cum for'ds free of cost!" he interrupted me.

"Trooly I do, and I won't deny that it's a strong holt on the gineral public. With my panoramy of 22 pictures, my eddecated hog, jumpin frog, five legged wolf, exhibishun grasshopper, Cherokee sassyparilly, Magic cement and the marryin bizness I've got a combinashun which can't be busted by nuthin short of another 400 days' rainstorm. I shall be givin one of my unrivaled exhibishuns in the town of Jericho tomorrer eavenin and shall esteem it an honor to see ye present on a front seat. No charge fur admishun—no reserved seats—children of all aiges welcomed with a fatherly smile."

A WILD EYED CRITTER.

"Durn yer ole show, but I'm a-mind to pop ye!" he howls. "What hev ye dun in that free mar'yin bizness but mar'd my ole woman to three other men, and I've had to stay by the shanty night and day fur the last four weeks to keep 'em from gittin her Prepar' to die!"

"My friend," sez I, workin up my blandness with all my might, "ye must allow that if yer ole woman hadn't stepped out to be mar'd I couldn't hev j'ined her to anybody.

"Howsunever, I'm a man as plays a fa'r game, and bevin mar'd her I will now divorce her. From this minit on them other critters hain't got no rights."

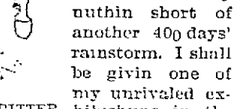
"That's better" sez he, seemin to soften up a bit, "but how about that jumpin frog?"

"As to what?"

"As to carryin him around the kentry to discourage human bein's from tryin to git along."

"Has he discouraiged anybody?"

"Dozens of 'em, and I'm one. I was the jumpinest thing around these yere parts till that blamed reptile appeared. Durn his hide, but I'm the jumpinest thing yit! I hain't goin to allow no varmint of a frog to lay over me and put down my pride. Git him out yere, and I'll bear him on the jump or leave both legs behind."



"How ye goin back on natur'?" I asked.

"What's natur' got to do with it?"

"She made the frog to jump. He can't walk nor fly nor skate."

"THAT'S AGIN THE LAW"

He's got to jump when he goes, and the farther he jumps the quicker he gits thar."

"And didn't natur' also make me to jump?" yelled the critter as he galloped his horse around my outfit.

"Git out yer reptile, and I'll beat him or bust."

"Ar' ye a fa'r minded man?" says I as I wished him fur, fur away.

"I am!" he hoots.

"And if my jumpin frog kivers the most ground thar won't be any row?"

"I'll gin my word thar won't. If the varmint born in a mud puddle kin lay me out at jumpin, I'll go hence and crawl into a hole and die."

I got the frog outer his box and sot him down on the grass, and when he got the word he kivered 9½ feet without skeercely humpin hisself.

"Kin ye beat it?" sez I to the stranger as he stood thar a glarin at the frog.

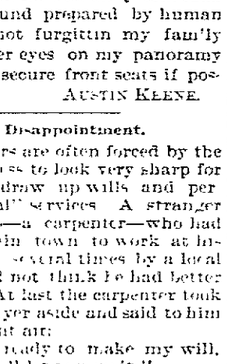
"I won't try," he yells. "What ye've dun was to glue wings to that ar' reptile's shoulders, and as that's agin the law and I'm a constable I'll hev ye tried by the law. Git ready to go with me to the town of Risin Sun, and if the law don't deal out justice the vigilance committee surely will." In my humble way I could hev got the drop on him and left his karkass lyin on the prairie, but as I felt that the law would clear me, and as I wanted to visit the town of Risin Sun to arrange fur my show, I followed him in peace. When we got thar, he went into a saloon and brung out the justice of the peace and sez:

"Bill, yere's a human critter as is travelin around the kentry to discouraige ambishun."

"Which ar' agin the statoots, and I'll make him wish he'd never bin born!" shouted the justice.

"He's got a frog with wings glued on to him, and no critter in Cherokee kin jump agin him."

"That's wuss and wuss. I'll open this yere court on the head of this yere bar'l and convict the prisoner, and may the Lord hev mercy on his soul!"



"I WISH FUR TO DENY ABOUT THEM WINGS."

"I wish fur to deny about them wings," sez I, holdin up the frog.

"But how kin ye?" says the justice.

"Look fur yourself. He's jest a jumpin frog, and if he had wings he wouldn't know how to use 'em."

"Prisoner, this yere plaintiff and constable ar' my brother Sam. What Sam sez has to go with this yere court. I'm agoin to take his word about the wings, but bein it's yer fust offense and bein bizness in the saloon ar' drivin I'll let ye off with a fine of $20."

"Kin I take an appeal to a higher court?" sez I.

"Sartinly ye kin, and the same higher court ar' the vigilance committee, and the president of the same stands afore ye Will ye pay or hang?"

Feelin that my life belonged to my feller men or to sich of them as kin be amoosed by my exhibishuns and restored to health by my Cherokee sassyparilly, I paid the fine and departed. The price is allus a dollar a bottle, and it is warranted to tech more vital spots in the human system than any other compound prepared by human hands. While not furgittin my fam'ly remedies, keep yer eyes on my panoramy and so forth and secure front seats if possible.

AUSTIN KEENE.

A Rude Disappointment.

Country lawyers are often forced by the scarcity of business to look very sharp for opportunities to draw up wills and perform other "legal" services. A stranger of mature years—a carpenter—who had come to a certain town to work at his trade, was asked several times by a local lawyer if he did not think he had better make his will. At last the carpenter took the delighted lawyer aside and said to him with an important air:

"I ain't quite ready to make my will, but when I am I'll let you do it."

"Good! But now's the time to draw it up."

"Well, the fact is, I've had a disagreement with my sister Jane, and I ain't going to leave her a cent."

"Good! But have you any other relatives?"

"Yes—one sister and a nephew."

"Good! Any disagreement with them?"

"None whatever. But I ain't—I'll tell it to you particular—I ain't going to leave either one of them a cent neither."

"Now, why is that, pray?"

"Because I haven't got a cent to leave to anybody."

Whereupon the lawyer hastily took his departure and troubled the carpenter no more about his will.—Youth's Companion.

With a Double Meaning.

It was on a certain east bound street car that a young man sat, looking "stuck on his form." He was very young indeed, and when a pretty damsel, with a solid looking valise, entered the car and occupied all the seat in front of him he endeavored to win from her a smile. Presently she rang the bell and picked up her valise. The very young man instantly jumped up and bowed.

"May I carry that valise off for you?" he said winsomely.

"You needn't trouble," she replied "There's nothing in it."

With that she got off, and the passengers laughed, as if she had really meant to accuse him of larcenous intentions.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Pretty Old.

Linton, in Devon, is claimed to be one of the healthiest places in England. Recently a visitor began to talk to an old man there and asked him his age, where upon he said, "I am just over 70."

"Well," said the visitor, "you look as if you had got a good many years to live yet. At what age did your father die?"

"Father dead?" said the man, looking surprised. "Father isn't dead. He's up stairs putting grandfather to bed."—Tit-Bits.

COTTOLENE.

would be a more appropriate name for that common cause of suffering—dyspepsia—because most cases of dyspepsia can be traced to food cooked with lard. Let COTTOLENE take the place of lard in your kitchen and good health will take the place of Dyspepsia. Try it. MRS. SARGENT.

DR. PIERCE: Dear Sir—My wife cannot speak too highly of your "Favorite Prescription," it having completely cured her of a serious womb trouble of long standing. She took five bottles altogether, and she has borne a large, healthy child since. There has been no return of the complaint.

She only wishes every poor, suffering woman she could know of the inestimable value your Favorite Prescription" would be to her, and thanks you, gentlemen, from the bottom of her heart, for the benefit she has received.

Yours very truly,

Insist upon having the genuine.

IT IS FOR SALE EVERYWHERE.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50 cent bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

"What I Eat Does Me No Good."

How often this expression is heard—life destroying dyspepsia has hold on you when you feel thus, and should not be trifled with. There is but one remedy that can permanently cure you, Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, made at Rondout, N. Y., a vegetable compound endorsed by the medical profession. Druggists sell it at one dollar a bottle.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 7.—Returns from the interior of the state show Republican gains everywhere and indicate that the Republican state ticket will be elected by a majority of from 35,000 to 40,000. The average Republican gain in precincts thus far received is 37, and it is steadily increasing. Chairman Wall of the Democratic state central committee conceded the election of Upham and the entire Republican state ticket. Chairman Thom of the Republican state central committee claims the state by 50,000, and Henry C. Payne concurs with his estimate.

Alabama.

MONTGOMERY, Nov. 7.—Returns from the election in this state indicate the election of all the Democratic nominees with the possible exception of Denson in the Seventh, which at present seems to be in doubt. The Republicans are very active in the Fourth and Ninth districts, but Robbins and Underwood have good majorities in the Fifth. Cobb defeats Goodwin, leader of the Populists.

Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 7.—Indications point to an overwhelming Republican triumph in this state. The Republican state committee claims for Owens from 30,000 to 50,000 majority over his opponent, Myers, for secretary of state, 13 congressmen and both branches of the legislature. Democrats concede 20,000 Republican majority, but think they will have four congressmen.

Maryland.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7.—The results indicate that Maryland, for the first time in a great many years, has gone Republican. The Republicans have elected three congressmen, with a probability of four out of six. The Republicans have elected a majority in the Baltimore city council for the first time in 27 years.

Georgia.

ATLANTA, Nov. 7.—The legislature elected Hon Patrick Walsh senator for the short term, ending March, 1895, and Hon. Augustus O. Bacon of Bibb county for the long term beginning March, 1895. In the state congressional elections all the Democrats are elected.

Washington.

SEATTLE, Nov. 7.—The vote in Washington state has been light because of bad weather. The indications are that the Republican state ticket is elected by 5,000 plurality. The legislature is claimed by the Republicans by a majority of 15 on joint ballot.

Illinois.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—The Republican state central committee claims Illinois by 75,000 plurality. 10 congressmen at least and both branches of the general assembly, which insures the return of a United States senator.

South Dakota.

PIERRE, Nov. 7.—Returns from all portions of the state, though meager, indicate that the Republican ticket, including two congressmen at large, is elected by not less than 12,000 plurality.

North Dakota.

FARGO, Nov. 7.—Secretary Holt of the Democratic central committee says that the vote is lighter than was expected. Kinter (Dem.) has a big vote and is possibly elected governor.

Missouri.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 7.—Returns received here indicate that the Democrats will have a majority of about 40 in the legislature and their state ticket by a plurality of 30,000.

Killed at the Polls.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 7.—There were several fights during the day in Augusta. John M. Goss, one of the Populist workers, challenged a negro vote and he was killed in a fight that followed.

A CASE OF FRATRICIDE.

John Gilbert Shoots His Brother in a Political Quarrel.

John and James Gilbert, who, with their brother, Ben, reside with their mother at Highland, a small village near Cold Spring, engaged in a political discussion, Monday night.

John became aggressive and James called upon Ben for assistance. John turned upon Ben and forced him into his room. The door was closed between them, but John picked up a gun and fired through the door, the charge striking Ben in the neck and killing him.

Marvelous Results.

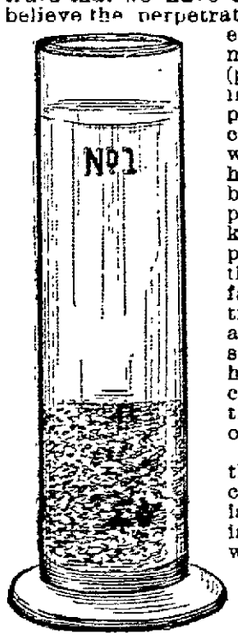
From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was taken down with pneumonia, succeeding la grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption, and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at McMonagle and Rogers' Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

PASKOLA VINDICATED.

GROSS IGNORANCE EXPOSED.

Its Value and Healthfulness Are Fully Established.

The results obtained by certain professed chemists in an attempt to analyze Paskola are so far from the truth that we have every reason to believe the perpetrators to be in the employ of rival manufacturers (possibly people interested in the preparation of cod liver oil), whose business has been injured by the merited popularity of Paskola. This suspicion is strengthened by the fact that the untruthful reports as to the composition of Paskola have been widely circulated thro' the mails and otherwise.



Among the things, the so-called "chemists" have stated is that Paskola was nothing but glucose and hydrochloric acid, the ridiculousness of which assertion will be made clear by the following experiment:

Take two pint bottles; in one place a tablespoon of glucose and in the other a like quantity of Paskola; fill them with water, shake thoroughly and add to each forty drops of muriatic or hydrochloric acid, in order to imitate the acidity of the natural gastric juice. Having previously finely minced a quantity of rare or raw lean beef, chicken, the white of hard boiled eggs or similar foods; put into each bottle one ounce. Immerse the bottles in warm water and carefully maintain the contents at a temperature of 100 to 105 degrees Fahrenheit, frequently shaking in order to thoroughly expose the food to the action of the solution.

In course of a very short time the contents of the bottle containing Paskola will be seen to undergo a change, and in two or three hours the food will have become entirely dissolved or digested; whereas the contents of the other bottle containing the glucose and acid will show no change beyond a slight difference in appearance.

If you have neither the facilities nor the inclination to make the test for yourself we have no doubt that your druggist will be glad to try the experiment. The tubes herewith show their suits of a test made in our laboratory the cuts being from a photograph. No. 1 contained glucose, and No. 2 Paskola. What are we to conclude? One of two things either that the so called "chemists" are ignorant or dishonest.

Glucose has no digestive properties. This is a well known fact, whereas Paskola is giving relief to thousands of dyspeptics, a truth attested by the unsolicited testimonials that pour in upon us. The presence of digestive ferments in Paskola cannot be determined by chemical test. No one has ever seen digestive ferments in a pure form, and the only way to determine their presence is by observing the effects which they produce upon food. This is a fact recognized by every authority, and will be found stated in Foster's Physiology and other standard works.

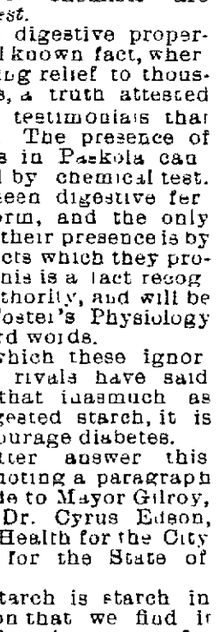
Another thing which these ignorant and jealous rivals have said about Paskola, is that inasmuch as its basis is pre-digested starch, it is calculated to encourage diabetes.

We cannot better answer this charge than by quoting a paragraph from a report made to Mayor Gilroy, of New York, by Dr. Cyrus Edson, Commissioner of Health for the City of New York, and for the State of New York.

"Pre-digested starch is starch in the exact condition that we find it prepared by the digestive organs for assimilation. It is preeminently a fat forming, heat-producing food. Under a diet of pre-digested starch or glucose, a man can perform more muscular work than under any other single article of food. Pre digested starch not only is not injurious, but it is an essential article of food, without which in some form, man cannot enjoy life."

This letter from Dr. Edson was written in answer to an inquiry from the Mayor as to whether or not pre-digested starch was healthful.

Paskola contains a specific form of pre-digested starch as well as digestive ferments, and is not alone a fattening food but it aids the digestion of other foods in the stomach, just as you may see in the above experiment. The tired, feeble stomach of the dyspeptic is too weak to do its duty. It needs a little help; this help Paskola gives. Its use is at once followed by a sense of well being, vigor strength and courage. The appetite improves and the sufferer can eat with comfort where before distress followed every meal. Paskola corrects emaciation and the pale, thin sufferers rapidly gain in weight under its use. Consumptives will experience a thousand times more benefit by it than from the use of disagreeable, nauseating cod liver oil, that often does more harm than good.



Consumption need not prove fatal if we can arrest the loss of flesh, for its victim virtually dies of starvation.

Send for our interesting pamphlet, and learn about this wonderful preparation. We will gladly mail you a copy free, upon application. The Paskola Digested Food Co., 30 Reade Street, New York.

Four Big Successes.

Having the needed merit to more than make good all the advertising claimed for them, the following four remedies have reached a phenomenal sale. Dr. King's New Discovery, for consumption, coughs and colds, each bottle guaranteed—Electric Bitters, this great remedy for Liver, Stomach and Kidneys. Bucklin's Arnic Salve, the best in the world. Dr. King New Life Pills, which are a perfect pill. For Over Fifty Years.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used by millions of mothers for their children while teething. If disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of Cutting Teeth send at once and get a bottle of "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for Children Teething. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures Diarrhœa, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the Gums and reduces Inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for children teething is pleasant to the taste and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Price twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world. Be sure and ask for "MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP."

A Horrible Railroad Accident

Is a daily chronicle in our papers; also the death of some dear freind, who had died with Consumption, whereas, if he or she had taken Otto's Cure for Throat and Lung diseases in time, life would have been rendered happier and perhaps saved. Heed the warning! If you have a cough or any affection of the Throat and Lungs call at John J. Chambers, 21 West Main Street opp. Runyyns Grocery, sole agent and get a trial bottle free. Large size 50c and 25c.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: "I have been in a distressed condition for three years from nervousness, weakness of the stomach, dyspepsia and indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely medicine; a few bottles of it have cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Sold by J. E. Mills, Middletown, N. Y.

The Trouble Over.

A prominent man in town exclaimed the other day: "My wife has been wearing out her life from the effects of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and Indigestion. Her case baffled the skill of our best physicians. After using three packages of Bacon's Celery King for the Nerves she is almost entirely well." Keep your blood in a healthy condition by the use of this great vegetable compound. Call at John J. Chambers, 21 West Main Street, opp. Runyons grocery, sole agent, and get a trial package free. Large sizes 50c and 25c.

From a Methodist Minister.

CLARKSON, N. Y., Nov. 1892.—"I have used Gilmore's Aromatic Wine in my family, and for a debilitated system there is nothing to equal it in restoring vigor and strength, and for female weakness it stands without a rival. I most heartily recommend it to all who may be suffering from chronic malaria or biliousness."—Rev. E. J. Whitney. All druggists sell Gilmore's Aromatic Wine at $1.00 per bottle.

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder Diseases relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the uninary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by J. E. Mills, druggist, Middletown, N. Y.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 7, 1894.

There will be a transit of Mercury, next Saturday. The transit of Democracy took place, yesterday.

A great many Democratic statesmen will be out of a job after March 4th next, but David B. Hill will not be of the number.

THE DEMOCRATIC DEFEAT.

The Democrats were smitten hip and thigh in yesterday's elections in nearly every state. Morton's plurality, which is not far from 145 000, is so much greater than the wildest expectations of his party managers that it is evident they had no conception of the magnitude and extent of popular discontent and Democratic dissatisfaction which found expression in votes against Democratic candidates, State, Congressional and local. New York city, once the stronghold of Democracy, gives Hill but a beggarly 2,500 plurality; Kings county, which gave Flower 16,089 plurality, gives Morton 16,375; Albany county, always reliably Democratic, gives Morton nearly 1,000 plurality. In fact the Democrats have carried but three counties in the State, New York, Chemung and Schoharie. The rock-ribbed Democracy of the latter county came very near not being rock-ribbed enough to withstand the earthquake, for that county's plurality of 1,517 for Flower, has shrunk to less than 500. The Democrats have elected but four of the thirty-four Congresmen.

In the other States the Democrats fared almost as badly. Connecticut, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin return to the Republican fold. Ohio, Iowa, Michigan and Pennsylvania give largely increased Republican majorities. The Republicans of Kansas elect their candidate for Governor, defeating Lewellyn, the present Populist incumbent by a large majority. Blood-to-the-Bridles Waite is buried in Colorado by a Republican majority of 20,000.

The next House of Representatives is Republican by a good working majority. Wilson, of West Virginia, the author of the tariff bill, is defeated by about 1,000. Owens, who defeated Breckenridge for the Democratic nomination in the Ashland district of Kentucky, is defeated, Breckenridge's friends having been unable to forget the bitterness of the canvass for the nomination, and having voted against the candidate of their party. The sugar planters' bolt in Louisiana availed nothing and the State returns a solid Democratic delegation to Congress.

What are the causes of this political revolution? They are many and widespread and far reaching. First and foremost, however, is the disposition of the people, often manifested before, to hold the party in power responsible for whatever ills they suffer. They did this notably in 1874 and again in 1892, and because popular discontent was greater and more widespread, this year, than ever before, so was the popular revolt against the party in power greater than ever before, and the popular protest against administrative methods more emphatic. Had the tariff bill been passed as promptly as it should have been, had Democrats in Congress showed more regard for the people and less for trusts and monopolies the result might have been different. As it was, final action on the tariff came too late for the business revival to blot out the memory of the months of depression and the Democratic party paid the penalty for conditions that were made possible and inevitable by Republican legislation enacted before the Democrats came into power.

Population of the State Hospital.

According to the Conglomerate there were, Wednesday, 1,061 patients in the State Hospital, in this city, of whom 521 were males and 540 females. During the week four patients were admitted and one discharged.

"Refrigerator Car" Called In.

Another new car, No. 12, was put on the cross town line, this morning and the "refrigerator car," as the open cars are now styled was called in. It is expected that car no. 8 will be ready for use to-morrow and the open car on the Park line taken off.

Found Dead in Bed.

William Thurston, a resident of Goshen, was found dead in his bed, this morning. Coroner Decker was called but did not deem an inquest necessary, and gave a certificate of death.

For dyspepsia try McMonagle & Rogers' Pepsin Essence.

THE RESULT IN THE WEST.

Great Republican Gains in Colorado, Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana.

BY UNITED PRESS.

DENVER, Nov. 7.—Colorado has repudiated the Populists and has swung back into the Republican column. Wisconsin has elected the Republican state ticket and nine out of ten Congressmen.

In Illinois the Democrats are crushingly defeated, state going Republican by from 40,000 to 50,000 plurality. The Congressional delegation is almost solidly Republican. Indiana is Republican by from 20,000 to 25,000 plurality.

THE RESULT IN PENNSYLVANIA.

BY UNITED PRESS.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—This city gives Hastings, Rep., for Governor 85 938 plurality. The indications are that Democrats have elected only one Congressman in the state.

THE CHRYSANTHEMUM EXHIBITION

Magnificent Display of Beautiful Flowers—Holiday Booths Handsomely Decorated and Presided Over by Fair Ladies.

The chrysanthemum exhibition opened at the First Congregational Church, this afternoon.

The lecture room of the church is brilliant with many colored flowers and the decorations of the various booths.

The booths each represent a holiday. The first one on the left of the entrance represents Decoration Day, and is presided over by Mrs. Geo. S. Belding, assisted by Mrs. R. H. Ayers.

Next is the New Year booth, presided over by Mrs. E. W. VanDuzer, assisted by Mrs. F. P. S. Crane.

On the right of the entrance is the Christmas booth. Mrs. W. E. Douglas is chairman and is assisted by Mrs. J. D. Wood, Mrs. Geo. M. Millspaugh, Mrs. J. E. Gibbs and Mrs. E. E Conkling.

The Easter booth adjoining the former is presided over by Mrs C. A. Whitney assisted by Misses Genevieve Ogden and Mabel Hayes.

Next is the Fourth of July booth, presided over by Miss Belle Gurnee assisted by Misses Belle March, Minnie Mills, Lillie Tyndall and Miss Black.

The Labor Day booth is presided over by Miss Mary Everson assisted by Mrs. Chas. H. Emde, Mrs. B. S. Keeler, Mrs. A. E. McIntyre, Mrs. E. E. Wood, Mrs. Wm. Sayer and Misses Mamie McNish, Jennie Everson and T. H. Crist.

Thanksgiving is represented in the supper room adjoining the lecture room where an abundance of good things will be served by Mrs. E. G. Medrick, Mrs. J. J. Silk, Mrs. J. H. Sudderly, Mrs. S. S. Decker, Mrs. C. C. V. Ketcham and Mrs. Geo. O'Neill.

The exhibition of chrysanthemums was never better than this year, either in the number and variety of plants or perfection of the flowers.

Mrs. Geo. S. Belding is the only exhibitor. She has about 200 plants and nearly 100 different varieties.

Among the choice varieties are the Minnie Wannamaker, bearing snow white blossoms, some of which measured seven inches in diameter; the Hicks Arnold, a bronze variety, nearly as large, and the Mrs. DeWitt Smith, a very large and beautiful white bloom.

On the specimen table there are many choice flowers, some of which measure eight inches in diameter.

Another collection is made up of fifteen varieties, comprising Pitcher & Manda's novelties for 1894, all of them being beautiful. One plant especially attracts attention, being something never seen in Middletown before. It is a large flower, yellow in the center, with a white border.

The exhibition will be continued afternoon and evening until Friday night.

—The Delhi Gazette says there is no truth in the story which has obtained wide circulation that Ephraim Beardsell, the murderer of Homer Pomeroy, is critically ill in the Delaware county jail.

—Democrats! Republicans! everybody, come out to-night to the chrysanthemum exhibition and get an oyster supper for 25 cents that will suit every one. Cold meats for those who do not like oysters.

—It is understood that our Republican friends will hold a jubilee over the result of the election this evening at 7:30, or, as one prominent Republican expresses it, "rub it in on the Democrats." There is no particular necessity for "rubbing it in," but we hope the boys will have a big celebration while they have a chance. The opportunity won't occur every year.

PERSONAL.

—Rev. and Mrs. S. M. Cole, of Bridgeville, have been calling upon friends in town.

Mr. Thos. J. Healey the book binder has secured an appointment in the bindery connected with the government printing office and will start for Washington to-morrow.

—Mr. Samuel A. Paine, city editor of the Elmira Sunday Telegram, is in town, to-day, obtaining facts concerning the Darwood-DeVed controversy and other matters that are now making St. Paul's Church a storm center of gossip, scandal and all uncharitableness. Mr. Paine will write up the matter for next Sunday's paper.

WRECK AT SUMMITVILLE.

A Passenger Coach on the Monticello Road Ditched—A Passenger Injured—The Coach Burned.

There was a wreck on the Port Jervis and Monticello railroad at Summitville, about seven o'clock this morning, resulting in the destruction of a passenger coach by fire, and slight injuries to a passenger, Frank L. Corwin, of Brooklyn.

The train was made up of an engine and one coach in which there were five passengers. Within a short distance of its destination at Summitville, the rails spread as the engine passed, and the coach was thrown down the bank. The passengers were badly shaken up, but all escaped injury excepting Mr. Corwin. He received several cuts and bruises, but continued his journey to New York over the O. & W.

The coach caught fire from the car stove and was totally destroyed.

Y. M. C. A. GYMNASTIC CONTESTS

Monthly Competition for the Several Class Medal.

Last evening occurred the monthly contest for medals to be held by the winner as long as he can retain the percentage or win higher ones. They are as follows:

Seniors—Joseph N. Grant, 352 points; John Duryea, 336; Geo. H. Lyon, 313. Class of '94—Fred Rowe, 87 points; Willie Smith, 85; Ritsie Denton, 83. Juniors—David Robertson, 55 points; Alfred Weller, 47; George Frank, 44.

An Oyster Supper for the Y. M. C. A.

The Epworth League of St. Paul's Church will give an oyster supper in the lecture room of the church, on Friday evening, for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A.

A short entertainment will be given. Admission free.

Recorder's Court.

—There were two cases of intoxication before the Recorder, this morning. One paid $3 for his fun and the other was discharged with a reprimand.

THE LOCAL RESULT

Orange County Democrats Buried Out of Sight.

BIG REPUBLICAN MAJORITIES!

Nothing Like Them Ever Known in Local Politics.

ODELL ELECTED TO CONGRESS!

His Majority in the District About 5,500.

THE RESULT IN SULLIVAN

Watson, Democratic Candidate for Sheriff, Saved.

THE FIGURES IN DETAIL.

The Majorities for the Several Candidates.

Orange county felt the force of the Republican tidal wave, avalanche, earthquake, slump or whatever you choose to call it and gave the largest Republican majority in its history. Nothing like it was dreamed of by the leaders of either party and the managers of the campaign were as much at sea as the merest tyro in politics.

All the local candidates of the Democratic party went down, of course, in the general smash. There was no show for any of them where even Democratic strongholds were tumbling over each other in frantic efforts to to take places in the Republican column.

In no election in recent years did individual effort and individual popularity avail as little as in this election One reason for this was the multiplicity of ballots. There is no doubt that many a voter, who really wished to vote for a friend of the opposite party, when he found himself in his booth with his handful of ballots, his conscience and his lead pencil, was too busy with his ballots to trouble himself to use his conscience or his pencil.

In the country towns the Democratic vote is short, many voters refusing to go to the polls, while it is evident that many Democrats who did go to the polls voted the Republican ticket.

The details of the local result will be found below:

Furs, Furs and Fur Garments.

Mr. Robinson, an expert fur salesman, will be with us showing the largest line of furs ever on sale in Middletown, on Wednesday and Thursday, 7th and 8th. Estimates furnished on repairs, changes, etc.

Remember the days, Wednesday and Thursday. A new souvenir given to every lady visiting our cloak and fur room during this sale.

New lot of high grade and stylish Jackets and Capes just received.

Eiderdown Cloakings and Lamb's Wool Cloakings, all new and at new prices; 36 inches wide, and never as cheap as now. So now is the time to make your selection. They make a nice wrapper for mama or a beautiful cloak for baby.

We are having a great sale of Dress Goods at reduced prices. Our 50 cent all wool Serges and Cashmeres, at 37c, are going out rapidly.

Now a word about Linings. They are an important feature in making a dress. We have all the new materials for lining a dress right to the up to date style. Fine taffeta and rustle cambrics, two faced silicias and hair cloth. They say hair cloth is scarce. We have it in quantities from 9c a yard up.

Bargain Table full of Remnants at less than cost.

LOFTEN COD LIVER OIL!

That's the kind we have. It comes from the Loften Islands, away up off the coast of Norway. We don't go and get it ourselves, but we buy it of the man who does; that's the reason it's pure, and why it's so cheap, too.

We would like to talk further with those needing any plain oil or emulsion.

OLNEY'S PHARMACY.

HARK!

Listen to the hum of the sewing machines, watch how the tailors are hustling, still we are falling behind on orders. We are highly pleased with the class of trade we are getting—the best in town. We are turning out Silk Lined Overcoats and Full Dress Suits, as well as good Business Suits and Trousers, for the million. Get your order in as early as you can to avoid delay. Suits to order from $12.50 up. Trousers $3 and up. "Don't be a ready-made man."

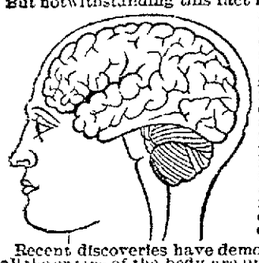
MYSTERIES!

The Nervous System the Seat of Life and Mind. Recent Wonderful Discoveries.

No mystery has ever compared with that of human life. It has been the leading subject of professional research and study in all ages. But notwithstanding this fact it is not generally known that the seat of life is located in the upper part of the spinal cord, near the base of the brain, and so sensitive is this portion of the nervous system that even the prick of a needle will cause instant death.



Recent discoveries have demonstrated that all the organs of the body are under the control of the nerve centers, located in or near the base of the brain, and that when these are deranged the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged. When it is remembered that a serious injury to the spinal cord will cause paralysis of the body below the injured point, because the nerve force is prevented by the injury from reaching the paralyzed portion, it will be understood how the derangement of the nerve centers will cause the derangement of the various organs which they supply with nerve force.

Two-thirds of chronic diseases are due to the imperfect action of the nerve centers at the base of the brain, not from a derangement primarily originating in the organ itself. The great mistake of physicians in treating these diseases is that they treat the organ rather than the nerve centers which are the cause of the trouble.

DR. FRANKLIN MILES, the celebrated specialist has profoundly studied this subject for years, and has made many important discoveries in connection with it, chief among which are the facts contained in the above statement, and that the ordinary methods of treatment are wrong. All headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion, pressure, blues, mania, melancholy, insanity, epilepsy, St. Vitus dance, etc., are nervous diseases no matter how caused. The wonderful success of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is due to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principle.

DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVINE is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by DR. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1; per bottle six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

LES ROSES DE SADI.

This morning I vowed I would bring thee my roses
They were thrust in the hand that my bodice encloses,
But the breast knots were broken, the roses went free
The breast knots were broken, the roses together
Floated forth on the wings of the wind and the weather,
And they drifted afar down the streams of the sea

And the sea was as red as when sunset uncloses,
But my raiment is sweet from the scent of th roses
Thou shalt know, love, how fragrant a memory can be —Andrew Lang.

A MILD ORIENTAL.

If you consider the circumstances of the case, it was the only thing that he could do. But Pambe Serang had been hanged by the neck till he was dead, and nobody cared whether he was right or wrong.

Three years ago, when the Elsass-Lothringen steamer Saarbuck was coaling at Aden and the weather was very hot indeed, Nurkeed, the big fat Zanzibar stoker who fed the second right furnace 30 feet down in the hold, got leave to go ashore. He departed a "Seedee boy," as they call the stokers. He returned the full blooded sultan of Zanzibar—his royal highness Sayyid Burgash—with a bottle in each hand. Then he sat on the fore hatch grating eating salt fish and onions and singing the songs of a far country. The food belonged to Pambe, the serang, or head man of the lascar sailors. He had just cooked it for himself, turned to borrow some salt, and when he came back Nurkeed's dirty fingers were spading into the rice. A serang is a person of importance, far above a stoker, though the stoker draws better pay. He sets the chorus of "Hya, hulla! Heeah, heh," when the captain's gig is pulled up to the davits. He heaves the lead, too, and sometimes, when all the ship is lazy, he puts on his whitest muslin and a big red sash and plays with the passengers' children on the quarter deck. Then the passengers give him money, and he saves it for an orgie at Bombay, Calcutta or Pulu Penang.

"Ho, you fat, black barrel, you're eating my food!" said Pambe in the other lingua franca which begins where the Levant tongue stops and runs from Port Said eastward till east is west and the sealing brigs of the Kurile islands gossip with Hakodate junks.

"Son of Ebhs, monkey face, dried shark's liver, pig man, I am the Sultan Sayyid Burgash and the commander of all this ship! Take away your garbage," and Nurkeed thrust the empty pewter rice plate into Pambe's hand. Pambe beat it into a basin over Nurkeed's woolly head. Nurkeed drew his sheath knife and stabbed Pambe in the leg. Pambe drew his sheath knife, but Nurkeed dropped down into the darkness of the hold and spat through the grating at Pambe, who was staining the fore deck with his blood.

Only the big white moon saw these things, for the officers were looking after the coaling and the passengers were tossing in their cloe-e cabins. "All right," said Pambe, and went forward to tie up his leg, "we will settle the account later." He was a Malay, born in India, married once in Burma, where his wife had a cigar shop on the Shwe Dagon road, once in Singapore to a Chinese girl and once in Madras to a Mohammedan woman who sold fowls. The English sailor cannot, owing to postal and telegraph facilities, marry so profusely as he used to do, but native sailors can, being uninfluenced by the barbarous inventions of the western savage. Pambe was a good husband when he happened to remember the existence of a wife, but he was also a very good Malay, and it is not wise to offend a Malay, because he does not forget anything. Moreover, in Pambe's case blood had been drawn and food spoiled. Next morning Nurkeed rose with a blank mind. He was no longer sultan of Zanzibar, but a very hot stoker. So he went on deck and opened his jacket to the morning breeze till a sheath knife came like a flying fish and stuck into the woodwork of the cook's galley, half an inch from his right armpit. He ran down elbow before his time, trying to remember what he could have said to the owner of the weapon. At noon, when all the ship's lascars were feeding, Nurkeed advanced into their midst, and being a placid man with a large regard for his own skin he opened negotiations, saying: "Men of the ship, last night I know that I behaved unseemly to some one or another of you. Who was that man, that I may meet him face to face and say that I was drunk."

Pambe measured the distance to Nurkeed's naked breast. If he sprang at him, he might be tripped up, and a blind blow at the chest sometimes only means a gash on the breast bone. Ribs are difficult to thrust between unless the subject is asleep. So he said nothing, nor did the other lascars. Their faces immediately dropped all expression, as is the custom of the orientals when there is killing on the carpet or any chance of trouble. Nurkeed looked long at the white eyeballs. He was only an African and could not read characters. A big sigh, almost a groan, broke from him, and he went back to the furnaces. The lascars took up the conversation where he had interrupted it. They talked of the best methods of cooking rice.

Nurkeed suffered considerably during the run to Bombay from lack of fresh air. He only came on deck to breathe when all the world was about, and even then a heavy block once dropped from a derrick within a foot of his head and an apparently loosed grating on which he set his foot began to turn with the intention of dropping him on the cased cargo 15 feet below, and one insupportable night the sheath knife dropped from the fo'c's'le, and this time it drew blood. So Nurkeed made a complaint, and when the Saarbruck reached Bombay fled and buried himself among 800,000 people and did not sign articles till the ship had been a month gone from the port. Pambe waited, too, but his Bombay wife grew clamorous, and he was forced to sign in the Spicheren to Hongkong, because he realized that all play and no work gives Jack a ragged shirt. In the foggy China seas he thought a great deal of Nurkeed, and when Elsass-Lothringen steamers lay in port with the Spicheren inquired after him and found he had gone to England via the cape on the Gravelotte. Pambe went to England on the Worth. The Spicheren met her by the Nore Light. Nurkeed was going out with her to the Calicut coast.

"Want to find a friend, my trap mourhed coal scuttle?" said a gentleman in the mercantile service. "Nothing easier. Wait at the Nyanza docks till he comes. Every one comes to the Nyanza docks. Wait, you poor heathen." The gentleman spoke the truth. There are three great doors in the world whereat, if you stand long enough, you shall meet any one you wish. The head of the Suez canal is one, but there death comes also. Charing Cross station is the second—for inland work—and the Nayuza docks are the third. At each of these places are men and women looking eternally for those who will surely come. So Pambe waited at the docks. Time was no object to him, and the wives could wait, as he did from day to day, week to week, month to month, by the Blue Diamond funnels, the Red Dot smokestacks, the Yellow Streaks and the nameless dingy gypsies of the sea that loaded and unloaded, jostled, whistled and roared in the everlasting fog. When money failed, a kind gentleman told Pambe to become a Christian, and Pambe became one with great speed, getting his religious teachings between ship and ship's arrival and 6 or 7 shillings a week for distributing tracts to mariners. What the faith was Pambe did not in the least care, but he knew if he said, "Native—Ki-lis-ti-an, sar," to men with long black coats he might get a few coppers, and the tracts were vendible at a little public house that sold shag by the "dottel," which is even smaller weight than the "half screw," which is less than the half ounce and a most profitable retail trade.

But after eight months Pambe fell sick with pneumonia, contracted from long standing still in slush, and much against his will he was forced to lie down in his two and sixpenny room, raging against fate.

The kind gentleman sat by his bedside and grieved to find that Pambe talked in strange tongues, instead of listening to good books, and almost seemed to become a benighted heathen again, till one day he was roused from semistupor by a voice in the street by the dockhead. "My friend—he," whispered Pambe. "Call now—call Nurkeed. Quick! God has sent him!" "He wanted one of his own race," said the kind gentleman, and going out he called "Nurkeed!" at the top of his voice, and an excessively colored man in a rasping white shirt and brand new slops, a shining hat and a breastpin turned round. Many voyages had taught Nurkeed how to spend his money and made him a citizen of the world.

"Hi! Yes!" said he when the situation was explained. "Command him—black nigger—when I was on the Saarbruck. Oh Pambe. Good old Pambe. Dam lascar. Show him up, sar," and he followed into the room. On glance told the stoker what the kind gentleman had overlooked. Pambe was desperately poor. Nurkeed drove his hands deep into his pockets, then advanced with clinched fists on the sick, shouting "Hya, Pambe! Hya! Heeah! Hulla! Heh! Tabloh! Tawlo! Make fast aft, Pambe! You know Pambe. You know me. Dik be jeel! Look! Dam big fat lazy lascar!"

Pambe beckoned with his left hand. His right was under his pillow. Nurkeed removed his gorgeous hat and stooped over Pambe till he could catch a faint whisper. "How beautiful!" said the kind gentleman. "How these orientals love like children!"

"Spit him out," said Nurkeed, leaning over Pambe yet more closely.

"Touching the matter of that fish and onions," said Pambe—and sent the knife home under the edge of the rib bone, upward and forward.

There was a thick, sick cough, and the body of the African slid slowly from the bed, his clutching hands letting fall a shower of silver pieces, which ran across the room.

"Now I can die!" said Pambe.

But he did not die. He was nursed back to life with all the skill which money could buy, for the law wanted him, and in the end he grew sufficiently convalescent to be hanged in due and proper form.

Pambe did not care particularly, but it was a sad blow to the kind Christian gentleman.—St. James Gazette.

Helmholtz's Remarkable Brain.

In order to satisfy scientific men as to the real cause of Professor Helmholtz's death, says the London Telegraph's Berlin correspondent, a post mortem examination was made at the desire of his relatives, the chief results of which are as follows: As a consequence of the paralytic strokes the left portion of the brain was considerably softened, while the right portion was perfectly normal and sound. The brain displayed unusually numerous cerebral sinuations, such as are known to be generally observed in the brains of persons of very great intellect. The physicians and pathologists who conducted the examination were extremely interested in what they saw, and a cast of the brain was immediately taken. Other organs of the body showed some signs of disorder, but in his lifetime the deceased had not experienced any inconvenience therefrom.

may read. No woman, if she can read, can fail to know about Pearline. Then, if you're worn out with hard work or find your clothes going to pieces, you've only yourself to blame.

You'll have to choose your own way of washing. You can use soap and the washboard, and tire yourself out, and rub your clothes to tatters.

You can use so-called washing-powders, imitations of Pearline, and have easier work, though they're eating up the clothes. Or you can use Pearline, wash in the easiest way, and be absolutely certain that there isn't the slightest harm.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 423 JAMES PYLE, New York.

"America's Greatest Men and Women."

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

MR. WILSON TALKS.

MY Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess.

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find none until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy and secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history. The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

RAJAHS IN REBELLION.

The Dutch Have an Interesting Eastern War on Their Hands.

At rare intervals one sees in the foreign dispatches some reference to the Acheen war or other item bringing to mind the fact that the Dutch have a little problem of their own in the East Indies. It is really a rather big problem, for Java contains a little over 49,000 square miles and is the fourth in size of the large islands, being also the most fertile and prosperous tropical island in the world, and though the Javanese have long been quiet under Dutch rule they are not displeased to see rebellion in the smaller islands near by. The Dutch have now fought the Archinese since 1873, and this fact has stirred up rebellion in the islands of Lombok and Boli, for in the East forbearance is always attributed to weakness, and any failure to crush a native insurrection promptly is pretty sure to cause other rebellions.

Boli and Lombok are next in importance to Java among the Dutch possessions, though much inferior in size, and the native kings of both have been permitted to rule under the title of rajahs, the Dutch directing their action by resident agents. Both islands recently rebelled, and the Dutch made the same mistake as in Sumatra, that of sending a small force at first. The three columns which marched into Lombok were ambushed and suffered disgraceful defeats. This roused all the vigor of the Dutch in Java and very nearly caused a political revolution in Holland; 6,000 soldiers were hurried forward from Batavia, and large detachments were sent from Holland, so it is but a question of a few months' fighting, as the people of Lombok and Boli are poor soldiers.

Although of the same Malay stock they are far inferior to the Javanese. The rajah of Boli, as he appeared before the Dutch governor general in his finest robes of state, resembled a colored servitor out for a holiday rather than a king, but the rajah of Lombok, or king, as he is sometimes called, is a man of far more royal appearance. The island is chiefly valuable to the Dutch on account of its tin mines. The people are Mohammedans, except a few remnants in the mountains of the heathen aborigines.

STEGE'S JUMPING GOLD MINE.

He Believes There Is Millions In His Two Acre Frog Ranch.

California has long been known as a great place for frogs, and the fame of "the notorious jumping frog of Calaveras county" is worldwide, but a frog ranch is a departure in batrachian history that is a novelty even in California. This frog ranch is in Contra Costa, not Calaveras county, and Jim Smiley has nothing to do with it and is not even betting that it will or will not succeed. Its owner is one Richard Stege, who has two acres of ponds at Stege's Station, on the Southern Pacific railroad, not far from San Francisco.

Mr. Stege started his ranch a few months ago with 2,000 California frogs, and they have multiplied so rapidly that he now believes he has at least 1,000,000 in the ponds. He originally stocked his ponds with carp, but when he learned that some obliging nomadic frog catchers who kindly volunteered to rid his ponds of the frogs that infested them had sold the batrachians in San Francisco for $3 a dozen and made about $500 on the deal the idea of establishing a frog ranch suggested itself. Inasmuch as frogs' legs sell for $2.50 a dozen when plentiful and from $4 to $9 when scarce, the financial outlook seemed bright, and Mr. Stege at once proceeded to gather together all the promising looking frogs that he and a dozen expert frog catchers could find.

Like all pioneers, Stege found no precedents that were instructive. Science told him, he says, that frogs were not migratory, but after half his jumping gold mine had hopped away to parts unknown he concluded that science was wrong and began building fences to keep the gold mine on his own premises. He first built a fence 18 inches high, but the frogs sat on top of it and laughed at him and then croaked farewell. A fence 4 feet high was treated with the same contempt, but when he added a slanting roof board to the top of the fence and faced the under edge of the board with tin that curled inward and then upward, the frogs abandoned the emigration business. Stege is as enthusiastic over the frog ranch's outlook as Colonel Mulberry Sellers doubtless would be were the scheme his own.

The postoffice of Purgatory was established in Virginia in 1892, with George Godbethere as postmaster.

LO! THE RICH INDIAN

THE FIVE NATIONS ARE PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE.

The Cherokees, Chickasaws, Choctaws, Creeks and Seminoles of the Indian Territory Are Progressing Rapidly In the Arts of Civilization.

Judge Holman thinks the Indian question is settled at last. All the tribes are located where they want to be. All are at peace, and their young men are inclined to remain so, and civilization is extending among them all. Of all the Indians in United States territory two-fifths are quite civilized, as many more partially so, and but one-fifth remain outright barbarians. It is as yet impossible to tell from the eleventh census the exact number of Indians in the United States, but it is certainly less than 300,000, and even when all the "intruders," negroes and other nominals, are included, the number scarcely exceeds that.

"Intruders" is a general name given to white men who have in various ways gained a domicile among the civilized tribes of the Indian Territory, and, according to Superintendent Porter's agents, there were 109,393 of them in 1890 and only 56,035 real Indians. But it is extremely difficult to get a full census of the latter. They are suspicious of every move made by agents of the government and evade all questions. The five civilized tribes are the Cherokee, Chickasaw, Choctaw, Creek and Seminole, and of these it is the fashion to say that the Creeks are most industrious, but the Cherokees are "the aristocracy of all Indians."

CHIEF PERRYMAN OF THE CREEKS.

The industry and progress of the Creek Nation are largely due to its negro subjects, who now virtually control it. In fact, the principal chief, as the executive of the nation is called, is habitually spoken of as a negro, being a dark miscegene. His name is Lequist Choteau Perryman, and he not only comes on the Creek side from a family famous in the nation's annals, but has had a personal career of great variety. He was born March 1, 1838; was educated at the Tallahassee mission principal academy of the Creeks; enlisted in the Union army in Kansas in 1862, and in 1865 was mustered out as sergeant major of the First regiment, Indian Home guards. He has since been district judge and member of the national council and was inaugurated as principal chief Dec. 5, 1887.

The figures on the cost of civilizing these five tribes are startling. The United States has paid some $25,000,000 on their account and is still paying over $400,000 per year. Yet it is a simple business transaction, and the Indians realize much less on their property than other landlords. At the start the government inaugurated a system of not paying the Indians cash for their lands, but giving notes—that is, the money was put in trust funds, and the Indians get the interest, and now the principal and interest stand thus:

Tribes.	Amount of principal.	Annual interest.
Cherokee	$2,625,842.37	$157,469.33
Chickasaw	1,308,695.95	68,404.95
Choctaw	549,594.74	32,344.73
Creek	2,000,000.00	100,000.00
Seminole	1,500,000.00	75,000.00
Total	$7,984,132.76	$413,219.01

The net result is that they run their local governments and support their schools without taxation, and as they have a large area of fertile lands and immense pastures for their great herds of horses and cattle it is not at all surprising that white men acquire citizenship by all possible devices, marrying Indian girls wherever that is practical. Nearly all the Indians are nominal Christians, but among the 20 or more fragments of tribes absorbed by the Cherokee Nation are still a few pagans. One by one the Wyandottes, eastern Osages, Senecas, Shawnees, Quawpaws, Delawares, Miamis, Weaws and many others have dissolved their tribal relations and accepted "head rights" as Cherokees. The Miamis, who once dominated all the region from central Ohio to and beyond the Wabash, now number but 40 families or so. In all the five tribes there are 786 church organizations, with 422 buildings and 369 halls in which religious services are often held and 21 sects represented, the Methodists and Baptists being most numerous, with over 9,000 members each.

It is claimed that the Indian negroes are the most advanced and progressive of their race. The civilized tribes held slaves from early times except the Seminoles, who intermarried freely with runaway negroes. The negroes number 18,636 in the five tribes and furnish the best interpreters, as they speak the native tongues fluently and learn English much more readily than the Indians. The Choctaws have prescribed the death penalty for an Indian who marries a negro. Among the Cherokees such a marriage is discouraged, but the Creeks and Seminoles pay no attention to it.

The largest towns in the Indian Territory are McAlester and Krebs in the Choctaw nation, with 2,000 inhabitants each, but these are very few with more than 1,600.

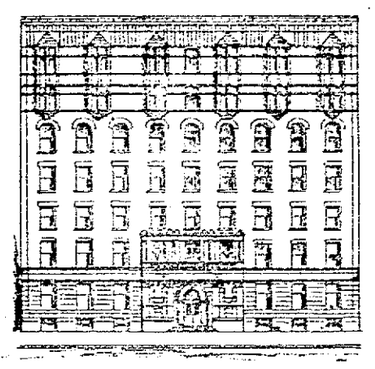
A TEMPLE FOR WOMEN

NEW HOME OF THE CHICAGO YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

It Will Be a Credit to the City and Furnish the Comforts of Home to Many Worthy Working Women—A Useful and Prosperous Organization.

Everybody has heard and read of the Young Men's Christian association for lo, these many years, but it may surprise some readers to learn that there is a Young Woman's Christian association, and that it has done a splendid work, especially in Chicago. It seems to be taken by common consent that there is more need of that particular kind of work in Chicago than in any other American city in proportion to the population. The city is so new, so rapid in its growth and so aggressive, having also the most mixed population of any American city, that there is special need of a home and central agency for women, and just now the good ladies in charge are feeling especially elated over their new and commodious building, which is rising at 228 Michigan avenue on the site of the somewhat historic John B. Drake mansion.

It was in 1872 that the first Young Woman's Christian association was formed, but it was not till 1886 that it became an international affair. There are now in this country over 300 associations and 19 fully organized state associations. In Chicago the order has a main home temporarily at 291 Michigan avenue, another at 5718 Kimbark avenue, a home for transients at 367 Jackson boulevard and an employment bureau at 243 Wabash avenue, all of which are to be concentrated in the new building, which is also to be a woman's hotel and boarding house. The lot was bought of the Drake estate in 1886 for $40,000 and is now worth much more and is 80 by 161 feet in area. It will all be covered by the new seven story building, of which the front will be of raindrop brownstone in the basement and above that fire pressed brick, ornamented with terra cotta.



CHICAGO'S NEW Y. W. C. A. BUILDING.

The entrance will be through an ornate portal, with marble steps. To the right as one enters will be the library and to the left the reception room and parlor. Back of the entrance hall the gymnasium is to extend the full length of the basement, and the rest of that floor will be taken by the dining room and kitchen. On the next floor above is the assembly hall, with seats for 600 and extending through two stories, and back and above that will be library, dispensary, lodging and other rooms. The interior will be finished throughout in hard woods and all the building well lighted and warmed. It is a surprise to learn that with all this the charge for board and room, light and heat included, will only be from $3.50 to $5 per week, the difference being only in the location of the rooms, of which there will be 250. And yet the ladies in charge expect the institution to be self supporting after the first year. The building will cost $125,000 and the furnishing probably $30,000.

The work of the association is meant to be altogether preventive. "We do not," says Mrs. Leander Stone, the president, "wait until they go over the precipice and the ambulance comes with clanging bell, attracting the attention of the world. Indeed our work is so quiet very little is known of it." In the constitution adopted 18 years ago it is declared that:

The object of the association shall be to promote the moral, religious, intellectual and temporal welfare of women, especially women who are dependent upon their own exertions for support, a part of this work to consist in organizing homes and securing employment for self supporting girls and those endeavoring to become such, and furnishing medical aid through a well regulated dispensary.

The association has agents, who meet all trains coming from a distance and passenger steamers during the season and direct all women traveling alone to safe lodging and boarding houses and give all desired information about connecting trains, suggest economical methods of transferring baggage and in all ways assist those who are confused on arrival in a strange city.

These agents tell many interesting stories of their encounters with a certain sort of women who seek their prey at the great railroad stations. In the year 1893 they guided some 6,000 persons aright and rescued many young girls who had already been taken in charge by female harpies.

The cosmopolitan character of the human inflow to Chicago appears in the fact that the women thus cared for were from 24 states and territories, from 12 European nations and from Canada and Asia.

John Bull Owns Up.

In an interview in an English weekly paper Mr. Ben Davies said, "From the musical point of view I must confess that the American people are considerably in advance of us," and he added that this was possibly owing to the German element in the United States.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50 cent bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

PUBLIC VOICE.

Would Like Mr. Taylor to Quit Talking Big Money and Walk for Reasonable Figures.

ELLENVILLE, Nov. 4, 1894.

EDITOR ARGUS:—Reading Mr. Taylor's reply to my challenge of Friday, and as he seems to prefer newspaper to personal correspondence, I would ask you to kindly publish the following:

To Willison Taylor, Jr., Middletown, N. Y:

I saw your reply to my challenge of Friday, and was not at all astonished, as that seems to be your forte, —accepting challenges, but putting the side bet where you know no ordinary athlete can touch it. When Eddie Adams issued his challenge two years ago, you pursued these tactics. When Smith, of Crystal Run, tried to arrange a match with you, you snowed him under by insisting that it should be a match for (if my memory serves me right) $4,000 or nothing—there was at least some such outlandish figures attached to it. Now, if you have so much money you had better keep it. Neither I nor any other local athlete can cover any such amount, and furthermore you know it, and fully understood that you could reply to all such challenges without placing yourself in any danger of having to pound sawdust. I have just arranged a match with Mr. Decker, of Rondout. For my part I would willingly make a three cornered race out of that if Mr. D. was willing or do anything reasonable to get a race with you after I get this one off my hands, if you would agree to a purse such as any other ordinary mortal would, but when you talk away up in the thousands, I am not scared out, but driven out by force of circumstance. Wishing that you might get down out of the clouds where I could reach you, I beg to remain very respectfully

CHARLES CLIFTON.

ELLENVILLE, N. Y.

A COOL AND WET OCTOBER.

The Coldest October in Four Years—Rainfall Above the Average.

The past month cannot be called a hot month by any means, as the record shows it to be the coldest October for the last four years. Thus the highest point reached was 73 as against 81 in 1893, 83 in 1892, and 88 in 1892 The mean of the month as compared with those years shows 55.5 for 1894, 56 6 for 1893, 55.7 for 1892, and 56 2 for 1891.

The range of the month has been from 33 to 73, with a mean range of 13 4. The rainfall of the month has been 5 33, or 1.92 above the normal, which for 17 years gave 3 45. Only three years in seventeen have given more than this year in the month of October The dryest October in that time was 1873, when only 0.32 of rain fell, as against 6.22 in 1890, which was the wettest. The total rainfall of the year thus far shows 36.92, as against 46.22 in 1893, 34.47 in 1892, 36.60 in 1891 and 43.28 in 1890.

LEW DOCKSTADER'S MINSTRELS.

"The Actor Up to Date," at the Casino, Saturday Evening.

"The Actor Up to Date," Lew Dockstader's satire on the star actor, is a song which Lew will sing in full ring costume and in exactly the same manner as a glove contest or knock-out fight is given, for Lew contends you must be a fighter now, if you want to be a star. Consequently he will sing this song in full ring costume, with seconds, timekeeper, gong, referee, and he proposes to knock the audience out inside of twenty rounds or lose the night's receipts, Corbett, Sullivan, Fitzsimmons, George Dixon and Peter Jackson had better look to their laurels. At the Casino, Saturday evening.

An Orange County Officer After Him.

From the Kingston Leader.

Yesterday morning a constable from the town of Crawford, Orange county, came to this city with a warrant for the arrest of Hugo Getsinger, of this city, on a charge of bastardy. The warrant was issued by Justice Newton Higby, of Orange county, on complaint of Lizzie B. Mullen. The warrant was endorsed by Chief Hood and Getsinger was arrested by the constable and Officer Cullen. He was taken before Justice of the Peace Josiah DuBois, Jr., and gave bail in the sum of $1,000 to appear before the next Court of Sessions of Orange county.

To Gridiron New Jersey With Electric Roads.

The New York and Philadelphia Traction Company, with a capital of $10,000 000, to operate a system of electric roads between New York and Philadelphia, with branches to important places, filed articles of incorporation, yesterday. Its capital is $10 000,000 and the system will include 250 miles of road. New Jersey papers say that this is the most important enterprise in New Jersey since the building of the Camden and Amboy railroad in the thirties.

Investigating the Wairarapa Disaster.

AUCKLAND, N. Z., Nov. 8.—An inquiry was commenced into the loss of the Union line steamer Wairarapa, Captain McIntosh, which was wrecked off Great Barrier Island, on the northeast coast of New Zealand, on Sunday night, Oct. 28, with the loss of eighty lives. The chief officer admitted that the Wairarapa was going at full speed during a fog, and that there had been no boat drills on board the Wairarapa for six months. Consequently ten minutes elapsed before the crew were able to lower the first boat. No regular attempt was made to save the women and children before the other passengers.

A Senator Shoots Two Persons.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—State Senator John F. O'Malley broke loose yesterday with a revolver, according to complaints lodged in court, and when he got through this post-election celebration Charles Shephard, a cab driver, was shot in the knee joint and in the hand, and Nicholas Varris, a saloon keeper, was shot through the fleshy part of the arm. Senator O'Malley got into an altercation over payment for drinks.

Painters Fall Forty Feet.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—A scaffold on which four painters were working at 1512 I street broke yesterday, and two of the men, W. J. Thecker and James A. O'Brien, fell forty feet to the sidewalk. Thecker, who is 36 years old, died in fifteen minutes from fracture of the skull, and O'Brien, who is 39, and married, died last night. The others escaped by climbing onto the roof.

Three Election Riot Victims.

MIDDLESBORO, Ky., Nov. 8.—William Cruse was shot and killed in an election riot in South America, this county, on Tuesday by Tom Jones. Will Jones and Tom Buchanan were killed by the Somers brothers in an election riot in Wise county, Va. The murderers escaped.

Fatal Result of an Election Row.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Gus Coleander, judge of election in the Ninth precinct of the Twenty-third ward, who was shot by a crowd of hoodlums who attempted to steal the ballot box at that precinct, died at the Alexian Brothers hospital yesterday.

Stole a Long Distance Rider's Wheel.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Frank Albert, who was endeavoring to break the bicycle road record between New York and Chicago, arrived in this city. While in a restaurant eating his supper his wheel was stolen, and he had to abandon his trip.

MARYLAND NEWS ITEMS.

SALISBURY, Nov. 7.—Professional burglars robbed the Salisbury postoffice at an early hour in the morning. They effected an entrance through the back door, bored a hole in the safe near the combination and with a dynamite fuse blew the front of the safe all to pieces. The robbers, who were scared off, secured $13,500 in stamps and about $75 in money, together with five registered letters, the contents of which are unknown, but supposed to contain considerable money. This is the second time the postoffice here has been robbed. The othe time was under Mr G R Rider's administration, and the robbers were caught and served time in the Maryland penitentiary.

CHESTERTOWN, Nov. 6.—A distressing accident occurred at Lamlson's Station, two miles from Galena, Kent county on Friday afternoon The 2 year-old son of John Reed was drowned in a slop or swill barrel within a few feet of the kitchen door of his home. Near the barrel was a peach basket turned bottom up, and it is supposed that the child was standing on the basket dipping out the swill with a little bucket, which was found in the bottom of the barrel, and lost his balance and fell in.

HYATTSVILLE, Nov 6.—Flagman Sabrey, stationed at Contree's Prince George's county, was killed by passenger train 146, leaving Washington at 5.30 o'clock this morning.

Killed a Man Five Years Ago.

WILKESBARRE, Pa Nov. 8.—Michael Sapshaw was arrested here charged with the murder of John Kosek, known as the 'Hungarian King' Kosek was very wealthy On Feb. 10, 1889 he was found dead by the roadside, and it was supposed that he had been killed in a runaway. Kosek's son at whose instigation the arrest was made, says his father was a victim of a murderous conspiracy.

Sentenced to Electrocution.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Henry Miles, the old man who on Dec 3, 1893, murdered Mrs Mary A Ward, at Felt's Mills, this county was yesterday brought here from Auburn prison and taken before Judge Irving G Vann, supreme court justice, for resentence. Judge Vann fixed the time for execution during the week beginning Dec 16, at Auburn prison.

Four Sailors Drowned.

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov 8.—The schooner Annie M. Pride was driven upon the rocks at the entrance to the harbor near Bear Cove, and her crew of four were lost It is thought that both captain and crew belonged at Cape Breton. The vessel was completely wrecked

Berlin Anarchists Sentenced.

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—Scheme, the anarchist, who recently shot a policeman who had arrested him, was yesterday sentenced to twelve years' imprisonment at hard labor and ten years' loss of civil rights Draeger, his accomplice, was sentenced to five years' imprisonment.

Careless Gunner Killed.

ASHLAND, Pa., Nov 8.—While gunning in the woods near Mahanoy City Peter Brobst, aged 15 years, was shot through the heart and instantly killed by the accidental discharge of his gun.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was taken down with pneumonia, succeeding la grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption, and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at McMonagle and Rogers' Drug Store. Regular size 50c, and $1.00.

SHE HAS A WIT THAT SPARKLES.

The Beautiful Princess Alix, Who Is Destined to Rule Over Russia.

Princess Alix of Hesse, who married the czarowitz of Russia the other day, is the favorite granddaughter of Queen Victoria and is allied to all the reigning families of Europe. She is the youngest daughter of Grand Duke Louis IV and Princess Alice of Great Britain, both of whom are dead. She was born at Darmstadt June 6, 1872, and was only 6 years of age when death robbed her of her mother. She has received an excellent education and is described as an attractive and amiable young woman, who is impulsive, sympathetic and witty in the extreme. She has a particularly keen sense of the ridiculous, and although her companions doubtless laugh readily when the princess cracks a joke she is said to be possessed of a wit that fairly sparkles.

As she was not of royal rank and is merely the daughter of a German petty sovereign, her marriage to the czarowitz will be a very advantageous one from a political point of view at least. For some time past her health has been delicate, and she has been attended by eminent specialists in mental disorders. It was at one time even rumored that she was insane, but the story proved to be unfounded. As the czarowitz is also frail and delicate, the children of such a royal pair can never hope to rival in physique the czar and his huge brothers.

The reigning house of Russia has shown decided preference for matrimonial alliances with the house of Hesse. Princess Alix's sister, Princess Elizabeth, is the wife of the Grand Duke Sergius, brother of the czar. The mother of the czarina was a princess of Hesse, and so, too, was the late czarina, a daughter of the late Grand Duke Louis II of Hesse, who, however, refused to recognize her as his offspring, it is said, until her unexpected betrothal to Alexander II, the Russian emperor who was assassinated in 1881.

AN IRISH M. P.

A Native of Canada Makes His Mark In the House of Commons.

Hon. Edward Blake, member of parliament for South Longford, Ireland, has had a remarkable experience on both continents, and his visit to the United States to raise funds for the Irish Nationalists in the coming elections has stirred up several kinds of Irish blood. He is a native of Canada and reached the highest place in the Liberal opposition, then declared that the battle there was hopeless for the present, went to Ireland and entered the British house of commons, where he took position at once as a leader.

He was born Oct. 13, 1833, in Adelaide, Ont., his parents having but recently arrived from Ireland. His paternal ancestors were of Galway and his maternal of Wicklow, so he is a very thorough Irishman indeed, but a devoted Protestant of the Church of England, and, like Mr. Gladstone, a profound scholar of the Conservative school. His father was a Canadian politician of note and at one time was chancellor of upper Canada. The son followed his father's course in politics, entered the Ontario parliament as soon as the dominion was organized and soon became leader of the Liberal opposition. When the Tory ministry was overthrown in 1871, Mr. Blake became premier of the province, but, with his colaborer, Alexander Mackenzie, soon left provincial politics for the dominion parliament at Ottawa.

Except for the five years of the Mackenzie administration he was always in the opposition and much of the time its leader, but in 1889 he gave up that post to Hon. Wilfrid Laurier of Quebec. In 1891 he declined a renomination and formally retired from Canadian public life to enter that of the United Kingdom. His success there has been phenomenal. He took his place at the start with the so called McCarthyites or anti-Parnellites, and on his entrance into parliament sat with Michael Davitt. It is often said that nature placed on him the sign and seal of a statesman. His large and handsome person, commanding presence, attractive countenance and strong musical voice are great aids to his talent.

THURSDAY, NOV. 8, 1894.

The autopsy held on the body of the Czar has established the accuracy of the diagnosis made by the physicians that his ailment was a chronic disease of the kidneys. The condition of the stomach was found to be perfectly healthy, thus disproving the stories that his illness was due to poisoning.

Morton's plurality, large as it is, falls a good many thousand votes short of Cleveland's plurality over Folger, which was 192 854 Yet at the next election in 1883 the Republicans pulled themselves together and elected their candidate for Secretary of State by 18,583 plurality, The uncertainties of politics are very great and the recuperattve powers of political parties almost pass belief.

Off year victories are not always unmixed blessings. For many years the Democrats won victories in the off years, but the Republicans managed to retain the Presidency for twenty four years. Tuesday's result shifts responsibility for legislation from Democrats to Republicans, and if matters do not go to the liking of the people they will vent their wrath, two years hence, on the Republican party.

It was one of the political maxims of the late Samuel J. Tilden, that as the local elections went in the spring, so would go the general election in the fall. This year's experience seems to prove the truth of Mr. Tilden's rule. At the spring elections in this and other States the Democrats experienced great and unexpected reverses, which plainly showed that the drift of popular sentiment was against them.

The "advanced women" of England are agitating for a reform of the social usage that bestows on man the privilege of asking in marriage, and not a few of them have put themselves on record as believing that women should do the wooing The necessities of the case may account for the stand the advanced women have taken for many of them have no chance of getting a husband unless they go in quest of him.

MISSING ELECTION RETURNS

Those for a Middletown and a New Windsor District Not Filed With the County Clerk, Yesterday.

Although the law requires that the returns from every election district shall be filed with the County Clerk within 24 hours, the returns from the second district of the Fourth Ward of this city, and from one of the districts of New Windsor had not been filed when the County Clerk's office closed last night. During the afternoon telegrams were sent from the clerk's office for the missing returns, but they failed to bring them to hand.

Inquiry, to-day, as to the whereabouts of the missing return from this city, elicited the information that if it was not in the package with the other returns from this city it was lost. No one was doing anything toward finding it or seemed to care whether it was filed or not.

THE CHRYSANTHEMUM EXHIBITION

The Attendance Large and the Booths Largely Patronized

The attendance at the chrysantheum exhibition yesterday afternoon and last evening was very satisfactory, especially for the opening day.

Most of the visitors were liberal in patronage of the booths, many persons laying in a stock of holiday presents. The exhibition will be continued until to-morrow night.

MONHAGENS EAT OYSTERS.

Chaplain Robinson Foots the Bill and the Firemen Enjoy Themselves.

About thirty members of Monhagen Hose Co. accepted the invitation of the chaplain of the company, Rev. D. Robinson, to eat oysters at his residence at the chrysanthemum exhibition at the First Congregational Church, last evening.

The oysters were served about 7 o'clock, and after all had eaten, Chaplain Robinson made a brief address to his company, expressing his pleasure at meeting them on such an occasion. Speeches were also made by President Hornbeck, W. B. Royce, Esq., and E. S. Merrill, Esq.

It was an enjoyable occasion and will do much to cement the friendly feeling that already exists between the Monhagens and their chaplain.

THE REPUBLICAN JUBILEE

The Boys Whoop It Up on Account of Their Victory.

The Republicans of this city celebrated the victory of Tuesday's election, last evening. With such a great victory it was expected that the demonstration would be on a corresponding scale, but for some reason it was not.

A procession was formed with the 24th Separate Company's band at the head and a colored drum corps bringing up the rear. The boys who always turn out in political parades regardless of their political complexion were in line and as demonstrative as usual, but it was a noticeable fact that but few of the Republican voters "punched mud" in honor of the victory.

There was an abundance of noise and fire works and several transparencies were carried in the line.

When the parade was over the crowd filed into the Assembly Rooms where Mayor Stansbury and Recorder Bradner made speeches.

The Republicans in Newburgh and Port Jervis also celebrated the victory, last night.

HYMENEAL.

English—Ayres.

The wedding of Miss Nellie Grant Ayres, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob C. Ayres, and Samuel Deacon English, of Flushing, N. Y., took place at the home of the bride, on North street, last evening, at 6 o'clock.

The house was prettily decorated with palms, evergreens and banks of chrysanthemums.

The wedding party entered the parlors at the appointed hour. Messrs. Fred Ayres and John E Mead, of Johnsons, brother and cousin of the bride, were the ushers.

Rhea Ashley, the little daughter of Dr. Ashley, of the Asylum, acted her part prettily as maid of honor. She carried a bouqet of white chrysanthemums.

Miss May Ayres, sister of the bride, was brideemaid, and wore a becoming gown of Lincoln green cloth, with velvet and jet trimmings. She carried a bunch of white chrysanthemums.

The attractive young bride, leaning on the arm of her father, was met by the bridegroom and his best man, Mr. Arthur Downey, of New York City, under a floral arch, and the beautiful Episcopal marriage service was impressively read by Rev. David Evans, rector of Grace church, of which the bride is a member. The bride looked charming in her traveling dress, a stylish tailor gown of brown broadcloth. She carried a bouquet of roses.

A fine collation was served. The wedding gifts were displayed in a room adjoining the parlor.

The pretty bride has many friends in this city where she has resided all her life. She has occupied the position of Supervisor's assistant at the State Hospital under Mrs. W. E. Cook. Gifts from the members of the staff and a generous check from Mr. and Mrs. Cook, besides remembrances from many others there and elsewhere, evinced their appreciation of her many admirable qualities.

Mr. English is the trusted assistant of Mr. Cook and is esteemed by his employer and is popular among his friends.

Mr. and Mrs. English left on Erie train 6 for New York city and Philadelphia. On their return they will occupy rooms prepared for them at the State Hospital.

NEW YORK HAT WORKS MAY CLOSE

Has Not Sufficient Capital to Carry on Business—A Chance for Investors.

It is reported that the New York Hat Works will shut down in a week or two because of lack of capital with which to carry on its business. The company has lots of orders ahead at good prices, but it has not money or credit sufficient to enable it to continue business on business principles and unless additional capital can be secured it will have to shut down its factory.

When the company was organized its capital stock was $25,000. Dull business for one or two seasons and the expenses incident to the maintainance of the factory are understood to have trenched somewhat on its capital.

There ought to be no difficulty in the company securing whatever additional capital it requiries to successfully carry on business. Its order book shows that it is doing a good business at good prices. The result of election ought to inspire Republican capitalists with the utmost confidence in the business outlook, and we shall be greatly surprised if some of Middletown's public spirited Republicans do not in the course of the next few days take enough New York Hat Works stock to put the concern on a firm financial basis.

SUDDEN DEATH NEAR WARWICK.

James Benedict Retires in Good Health and is Found Dead in His Bed.

A message was received by Coroner Decker, this morning, calling him to the town of Warwick to investigate the sudden death of James Benedict, who resided near Stone Bridge.

Benedict was twenty-two years old. He was in his usual health yesterday, and last evening took the milk to the station and made no complaint of feeling ill during the evening.

This morning he was found dead in his bed.

The First Sleigh Ride of the Season.

Alderman Baldwin was the first sleigh rider of the season. He was out just after noon in his old fashioned pang and his string of big bells made noise enough to drown the scraping of the runners over the stones. Sleigh riding under the circumstances wasn't much fun and Mr. Baldwin gave it up after riding through a few streets.

Gen. Kilpatrick's Daughter Married.

Miss Julia Mercedes Kilpatrick, daughter of the late Gen. Kilpatrick, was married, yesterday, at the Murray Hill Hotel, New York, to Lieut. William C. Rafferty, of the First Artillery, U. S. A. The ceremony was performed by Archbishop Corrigan.

INCIDENTS AND HAPPENINGS IN GOSHEN.

Cataract's Promenade Concerts—Fair at St. John's Hall—Death of Will Thurston, Jr.—Ladies' Aid Society Entertainment—Lucky Mr. Wyker—The Water Supply.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

—Don't forget that the first of the series of promenade concerts by Cataract Hose Co. will be held at Music Hall, to-morrow evening. Season tickets are three dollars and can be obtained of the committe. These hops, last season, were very successful, and it is hoped that they will be equally so this year.

—The fair in St. John's Hall, this week, is progressing finely. Many fancy articles are offered for sale. There will be dancing each night until midnight, and a general good time can be had there.

—Wm. Thurston, Jr., better known as "Stump" was found dead, yesterday, at a boarding house, where he had been given shelter. The cause of his death was exposure and dissipation. He was a brother of Poor Master E. M. Thurston and would not accept a home with him, although it was freely offered him. He voted, Tuesday afternoon, about 3 oclock, and his appearance was so changed and deathlike that the ballot clerks were doubtful as to his identity, and withheld the ballots until, by a friend, he proved that he was the person he claimed to be. He was in his thirty-third year and was unmarried. His funeral will be held from his brother's residence, Friday morning, at 10 o'clock.

—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church will give an entertainment at Music Hall, Monday evening, Nov. 19.

—W. H. Wyker is said to be the luckiest man in town, because he did not get the nomination for Member of Assembly, and thus escaped the cyclone of Tuesday.

—Nothwithstanding the heavy rain, this fall, and the working of the pumps at Prospect Lake, the water is several feet below the overflow. The lake is continually raising, however, and will probably be full to overflowing before winter sets in.

IN ANCIENT GOSHEN.

Two Pleasant Social Events — Some Local and Personal Notes—Silent Joy Something Unusual.

(From a Special Correspondent.)

—Invitations to the Vocal Society banquet have been issued to the active and associate members and patrons of the society. The banquet will be served at Music Hall, on the evening of Monday, November 12th, at 7 o'clock. After its conclusion addresses will be made by some of the guests and a musical programme rendered in which several New York artists will take part,

—The Misses Youngs, of East Division, have issued invitations to a dancing party at their home, near this village, on the evening of Friday, Nov. 16th,

—Rev. James Westcott, of Washington, D. C., has been spending a few days at the home of Hon. R. C. Coleman, in this village, —The ladies of St. James' Guild met, Tuesday afternoon, at the residence of Miss Alice Sayer, for the purpose of sewing for the missionary box.

—Among those who spent election day in Goshen were Wm. W. Lockwood, of Buffalo, and George M. Grier, of New York.

—While reading a few days since, the reader chanced upon the expression "silent joy," which caused her to reflect how very seldom joy is silent. It is one thing that almost always finds expression. It is not the sorrowful man who sings or whistles at his work. Nature seems to have intended sound as a sort of safety valve to happiness as tears are to sorrow. Even a "dumb" animal will express its joy in its own speech. The horse will whinny when its master's hand caresses it and when a dog has been separated from its owner he will often, on his return, give a cry of welcome that is almost human. We certainly testify our delight in a sufficiently noisy manner upon the anniversary of our freedom; in fact a long day of the thundering of cannon, the firing of crackers and snapping of torpedoes almost tempts one to wish that one's country were still under the English rule. In fact even when sounds are happy ones, it is possible to get too much of them. For instance the noise of the shouts and laughter of children at play in the open air is delightful, but if you are shut up in the house for a whole, long, rainy day with that same happy clamor it but too often palls upon you to such an extent that you long for the restfulness of the enchanted palace of the sleeping beauty, where even the ticking of the clocks and every movement of life had been suspended. We cannot help but think that if the Fairy Prince had been a widower with a houseful of healthy, happy children he would have hesitated a moment before breaking the charm by kissing the Princess, even were she ever so beautiful. MYSTERIES!

The Nervous System the Seat of Life and Mind. Recent Wonderful Discoveries.

No mystery has ever compared with that of human life. It has been the leading subject of professional research and study in all ages. But notwithstanding this fact it is not generally known that the seat of life is located in the upper part of the spinal cord, near the base of the brain, and so sensitive is this portion of the nervous system that even the prick of a needle will cause instant death.

Recent discoveries have demonstrated that all the organs of the body are under the control of the nerve centers located in or near the base of the brain, and that when these are deranged the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged. When it is remembered that a serious injury to the spinal cord will cause paralysis of the body below the injured point, because the nerve force is prevented by the injury from reaching the paralyzed portion, it will be understood how the derangement of the nerve centers will cause the derangement of the various organs which they supply with nerve force.

Two-thirds of chronic diseases are due to the imperfect action of the nerve centers at the base of the brain, not from a derangement primarily originating in the organ itself, and the greatest specialists in the world agree that the cause of nervousness in all its phases is that they treat the organ rather than the nerve centers which control it. DR. MILES, the celebrated specialist, has profoundly studied this subject for several years, and has made many important discoveries in connection with it, among the facts contained in the above remarks, and that the ordinary methods of treatment are wrong. All headache, dizziness, sadness, confusion, pressure, blues, despair, melancholy, insanity, epilepsy, St. Vitus dance, etc., are nervous diseases no matter how caused. The wonderful success of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is due to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principle. DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVINE is sold by druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by DR. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle. six bottles for $5 express prepaid. It contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

CATCHING A TARTAR

A sunny morning in June. The platform crowded—cheap trippers for Southsea, heavy swells and swells for the links at Hayling island, with bags of golf sticks. The yachting man, strongly in evidence, sunburnt and puffing a cigarette vigorously. If he is a new hand—a Dicky Sam—he wears a cloth peaked cap with the club burgee, a well cut coat of serge or pilot cloth bristling with bronze buttons, loose flannel continuations and white shoes. No man was ever so much a seadog as the yachting tyro looks.

The older sailing men, those to the manner born — "swagger squadron men," who can fly the white ensign, are dressed in long, lean, frock coats, loose trousers turned up, pointed boots, immaculate collars and glossy hats—the aim of the man who has lived is to look as much like a stockbroker as possible. Of course, down at the Castle or on Ryde pier they will blossom into a seasonable crop of buttons and burgees and display remarkable activity in dodging that tyrant of the deep—the sailing master—if the water looks a bit choppy.

Two people attracted a lot of attention by their palpable efforts at concealment. He, although the day was so hot, was enveloped in a long cloak, with a collar reaching past his ears, and his cotton white hair and mustache showed up occasionally in strong contrast to the deep brown of his face as he turned to watch the porters attacking a huge mound of his belongings.

Each box and bag was blazoned with an imperial coronet over a monogram, and then told one another guardedly and under promises of profound secrecy "that was Prince Paul Demtoff, the owner of the new 100 rater now lying off Southampton."

She, the lady, was tall and gracefully girllike. A neat, natty blue serge Redfern frock; a sunburnt straw hat, with a dark blue ribbon; tiny tanned boots; a white shirt, with a turndown collar, and flowing tie completed her costume, saving a thick gossamer veil that completely hid her face, and but for the whiteness and purity of her neck it would have seemed she suffered from some facial disfigurement. It was evidently a desire not to be recognized that led to the adoption of the yashmak.

She was evidently expecting or avoiding some friends. Her head moved with a birdlike quickness as she scanned each new arrival on the platform, and her slender hand, white and jewelless, twitched nervously round the handle of the morocco monogrammed case she carried. Catching her eye from a distance, he walked toward her with the easy, firm self assurance that women like. She saw he was coming to her and waited calmly—perhaps she breathed more quickly.

He raised his soft hat, and with a courtly bow said in perfect English, with the merest scent of an accent: "Pardon me, you are distressed. Have you missed your maid? Can I be of any service to you?"

Now his hat was off he appeared a prematurely white haired man of 45 or 50, with a firm face and voice—a man evidently used to command.

"Thank you very much," came in a soft sibilant voice from beneath the thick gossamer. "I have not only lost my maid, but my portmanteau, and I am afraid it is under that pile of luggage," and"—with a little shrug—"I am afraid that pile of luggage is yours."

"That is mine, madame. I will get your bag at once. May I ask where you are going? To Southampton, and it is of the highest importance you should not miss this train? Pardon, do not trouble. I will see that all is arranged."

A few words to the guard, a rapid passage of backsheesh, and the missing bag with a dainty monogram and small crest was placed carefully on the rack of the first class carriage by which the veiled lady was standing. With the coolness that seemed part of his nature, the Russian indicated to a porter a small hamper and had it placed in the same compartment. There must have been some collusion and a lavish tip, for, though the train was crowded, the guard, after the imperceptible manner of his kind, kept that carriage empty until the train started, and they found themselves alone, securely locked in.

A sudden start ran through her slender frame. She paused and asked quickly, "Do you know when the next train leaves Waterloo for Southampton?"

He was desolated. Of course she missed her maid, but he was afraid not for some hours.

"Madame is glad? Madame is afraid of being followed?"

"Yes, madame is glad. She does not wish to be taken back and forced into a hateful marriage," blushing prettily.

The old, old story—stern father, elderly lover, titled, rich, but horrid. No mother, no sister, no brother. She was flying from bondage to her aunt, Lady Azuregore, in Guernsey.

Yes, she was Lady Constance Azuregore. Had he really met her at the Duchess of Arlington's dance? She thought she knew his face. That was why she trusted him so implicitly on the platform, of course. But if she was veiled, why was he so shrouded in a big cloak? "Come, now," anxiously, "a lady? An elopement?"

No, no, and again no! Nothing so joyous. He was Prince Paul Demtoff and had fallen between two stools—had incurred the enmity of the imperial court through coquetting with the Nihilists. That meant the Alexiefsky Ravelin or the fortress of Peter and Paul in St. Petersburg, and, on the other hand, finding the "party of progress" going too far, he was threatened with death for deserting the red flag.

"You must pardon me, prince, but we seem to [illegible] each other," and she laughed merrily. "Do you know I half thought you were a detective?"

By this time he had returned to his hamper and [illegible] a table cloth, plates, [illegible] and serviettes, a small [illegible] Chateau Mouton Rothschild and [illegible] boiled chicken. Their mutual [illegible] had lessened embarrassment, and the lady, after making a little moue, said that she was so hungry and [illegible], etc.

They chatted on [illegible] as the train sped through the beautiful country, and by the time Southampton was reached he had smoked [illegible] cigarette and she had kissed [illegible].

She readjusted her veil and he assumed his big cloak with a sigh as the whistle of the train signaled the station.

"The Guernsey boat does not leave till midnight. What are you going to do? Where will you put up?"

"I don't know. I will never be taken back alive. And you, you are hunted. What will you do?"

"Go on board my yacht. She is lying off here, and the gig waits for the train at the landing steps. I trust half them, as none of them know me. My agent has engaged an entirely new crew, skipper included, all English. I want no nihilists on board." And he looked moodily out of the window.

She made a sudden movement, as if about to speak, but drew back. Again she leaned forward, and the repetiton roused him from his thoughts. He looked up and saw her eyes glistening even through the thick veil. She was crying!

"What is the matter? You are frightened. Can I help you?"

"I hardly dare ask you. You may think badly of me, but I will not be forced into this detestable marriage. Can you—may I"——

He divined her thoughts. "Stay on board my yacht and board the boat at midnight? Yes, your ladyship, yes—in all honor, yes." And he held out both his hands, and with a sob almost hysterical she placed her tiny gloves in them as the train stopped.

They left the station by a side door unnoticed, and walking down the broad graveled road with the soft sward and the old time cannon passed the crumbling walls and found the boat manned by six bronzed typical yachtsmen, the skipper, a fine looking old man, sitting motionless in the stern sheets holding the yoke lines.

"Do you know a respectable woman who can look after this lady until the mail boat starts?" asked the prince as he handed her carefully on board and passed her portmanteau. She carried the morocco case herself.

"Well, surr, I've took the libbaty of invitin my old woman on board today. She's been a stewardess, surr."

"Capital, captain. Now, lads, give way!"

The boat soon shot alongside a beautiful schooner yacht. The crew manned the gangway as the prince and Lady Constance came on board, and a motherly, sunburned woman courtesied her through an exquisitely furnished saloon cabin into a bijou boudoir with a lace curtained bunk and a host of feminine fripperies.

"I may sail tonight. Is all ready? Right. Take the boat and go ashore, bring off my luggage and anything we may want from the ship's stores. And, Johnson, keep the men afloat, but you just find out if there is any hue and cry about a lady eloping."

Captain Johnson, an old merchant captain, slowly winked and looked very knowing. "H'm!" he said to himself, "I half s'spected as much. That's the sort of owner I likes to sail with. Lots o' yellow boys kicking about this voyage, I lay."

In about an hour he returned, and doffing his peaked cap said mysteriously, "I spoke to my cousin, the policeman, an he says there's a lot o' cockney detectives down a-watchin the station an the Guernsey packet for some young 'ooman."

Her ladyship had washed all travel stains away and changed her frock. She looked like a fresh rosebud, but her face grew deathly pale, her eyes dilated, and the nerve lines deepened into marks of agony when he told her the captain's story. He thought she was going to faint and made as though to catch her. With a supreme effort she regained her self possession and said in a hoarse whisper.

"Oh, save me! Take me to Guernsey in your yacht, or I will jump overboard!"

He turned on his heel without replying and went up the companionway on deck.

"Johnson, your wife doesn't mind a trip to sea?"

"Lor bless yer royal 'ighness, she's dying for a sniff of the ocean!"

"Get under weigh at once."

"Aye, aye, sir! All hands on deck! Tumble up, my hearties!"

Her face flushed deeply when she heard the clank of the chain pump and the flapping of the foresail, and she thanked him with both hands and a sweet smile.

Under a good southwesterly breeze the yacht spun along merrily, throwing the foam in long, beautiful, featherlike curves from her clipper stern.

The lady stood leaning dreamily against the side ropes, and the prince, an experienced sailor evidently, took the tiller and threaded the way carefully through the crowd of craft. For a time neither spoke; then, abruptly giving the management to the appreciatively critical skipper, he beckoned her into the cabin.

"I will land you at Guernsey tomorrow morning," he said, "but I have been deceiving you. I am not Prince Paul Demtoff. I am his valet. I have robbed him of 1,000,000 rubles and am now going to the Argentine in his yacht," and he stood up rigidly and faced her.

She smiled and said calmly: "Very good! Take me with you. I am not Lady Constance Azuregore. I am her maid, but I've got her jewel case."—Million.

She who Runs may read. No woman, if she can read, can fail to know about Pearline. Then, if you're worn out with hard work or find your clothes going to pieces, you've only yourself to blame.

You'll have to choose your own way of washing. You can use soap and the washboard, and tire yourself out, and rub your clothes to tatters.

You can use so-called washing-powders, imitations of Pearline, and have easier work, though they're eating up the clothes. Or you can use Pearline, wash in the easiest way, and be absolutely certain that there isn't the slightest harm.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 425 JAMES PYLE, New York.

"America's Greatest Men and Women."

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

MR. WILSON TALKS.

MY Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess.

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find none until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some [illegible] ding American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of [illegible] same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy and secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history. The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

NO GO.

How Two Gentlemen Were Foiled In an Attempt to Earn Their Bread.

Yesterday afternoon a stranger stopped on the sidewalk opposite a vacant building on the West Side and stared intently at one of the upper windows. Several loungers, moved by idle curiosity, gradually gathered about him and directed an inquiring gaze at the same window, but could see nothing.

"I saw a queer looking man go into that house a few minutes ago," he muttered as if talking to himself. "He started up the stairs and then came back and shut the door, as if he was afraid somebody was watching him. I wonder what he's up to?"

Momentarily the crowd on the sidewalk grew larger, but the stranger kept his eyes fixed on that window and continued to mutter to himself.

Presently a wild looking man appeared at that window. He raised it, thrust his head out and glanced furtively up and down the street. Then, as if becoming suddenly aware of the presence of the crowd on the sidewalk, now numbering 100 or more, he drew back and closed the window, but raised it again almost immediately and leaned out.

"What do you want?" he said defiantly, pushing his hat back on his head.

"What are you there for?" demanded the stranger on the sidewalk.

"What am I here for?" he rejoined fiercely. "I don't know that it's any of your business. Do you own these premises?"

"No."

"I thought not. If I choose to come into a vacant building and take a look through it, with a view possibly of occupying it, I don't see why the whole town should gather round as if I was an escaped lunatic or a giraffe at large. But since you are here, gentlemen," he continued, opening up a small valise and taking out something wrapped up in a paper, "allow me to call your attention to a little article of my own preparation which I call the Lightning Toilet Soap and Dirt Remover, and which I warrant equally good for shaving, cleaning grease spots from clothing or for use in the bathroom, warranted not to injure the most delicate skin, but on the contrary especially suitable for infants, and I sell it by the cake for 5 cents, half a dime, one nickel, the twentieth part of a dollar, and if one of you will mount this box on the walk below me and reach up a hat or any other article of clothing with a grease spot on it I will take pleasure in showing you how quickly—what's your hurry, gentlemen?"

Silently but swiftly the crowd melted away until only the original stranger remained.

The man at the window closed it, came down stairs and out of the building and joined him.

"I told you it wouldn't work, Higgins," he said, with deep disgust, as they walked away.—Chicago Tribune.

She Feared the Worst.

"Give me the pie!"

Out upon the lawn of the Castle McMurtry stood a young girl just in the springtide of youth. Some scarlet roses that swung lazily to and fro in the breath of a June morning were not more beautiful than those which bloomed so brightly in the peachy cheeks of the Lady Constance McMurtry, and her slight but faultlessly molded figure, set off to perfection by a plain morning dress of white muslin, had in its movements more of grace and beauty than those of the gray hound which lay silently at the feet of its mistress, watching her every movement with intelligent and loving eyes. The girl's rippling golden hair was simply tied with a blue ribbon. The lovely, half childish face was a poem complete in itself. It was a face that changed with every thought—one moment gay and bright, in another thoughtful and sad. As she spoke the words with which this chapter opens there was a wistful look upon the pretty face, and the brown eyes shot forth a yearning will-I-ever-find-the-hairbrush glance that was pitiful in its sad beauty.

For a moment Lord Wyverne did not reply. Then, placing his hand on the girl's shoulder and looking into her eyes with a grave tenderness that told how the horror of the scene was pressing upon him, he said in tones that were almost a sob: "You must be brave, my child, must nerve yourself to bear a great grief."

"My God!" exclaimed the girl. "Tell me what has happened. It surely cannot be that there is no pie?"

"No, my darling," replied the earl. "It is not so bad as that. Your aunt is dead."

"Ah," said Constance, "how you frightened me! I thought surely it was the pie."—Detroit Sun.

"It fell down and broke the vase."—Tit-Bits.

The thumb is an unfailing index of character. The Square Type indicates a strong will, great energy and firmness. Closely allied is the Spatulated Type, the thumb of those of advanced ideas and business ability. Both of these types belong to the busy man or woman; and Demorest's Family Magazine prepares especially for such persons a whole volume of new ideas, condensed in a small space, so that the recent of the whole world's work for a month may be read in half an hour. The Conical Type indicates refinement, culture, and a love of music, poetry, and fiction. A person with this type of thumb will thoroughly enjoy the literary attractions of Demorest's Magazine. The Artistic Type indicates a love of beauty and art, which will find rare pleasure in the magnificent oil-picture of roses, 16½ x 24 inches, reproduced from the original painting by De Longpré, the most celebrated of living flower-painters, which will be given to every subscriber to Demorest's Magazine for 1895. The cost of this superb work of art was $250.00; and the reproduction cannot be distinguished from the original. Besides this, an exquisite oil or water-color picture is published in each number of the Magazine, and the articles are so profusely and superbly illustrated that the Magazine is, in reality, a portfolio of art works of the highest order. The Philosophic Type is the thumb of the thinker and inventor of ideas, who will be deeply interested in those developed monthly in Demorest's Magazine, in every one of its numerous departments, which cover the entire artistic and scientific field, chronicling every fact, fancy, and fad of the day. Demorest's is simply a perfect Family Magazine, and was long ago crowned Queen of the Monthlies. Send in your subscription; it will cost only $2.00, and you will have a dozen Magazines in one. Address W. JENNINGS DEMOREST, Publisher, 15 East 14th Street, New York. Though not a fashion magazine, its perfect fashion pages, and articles on family and domestic matters, will be of superlative interest to those possessing the Feminine Type of Thumb, which indicates in its small size, slenderness, soft nail, and smooth, rounded tip, those traits which belong essentially to the gentler sex, every one of whom should subscribe to Demorest's Magazine. If you are unacquainted with its merits, send for a specimen copy (free), and you will admit that seeing these THUMBS has put you in the way of saving money by finding in one magazine everything to satisfy the literary wants of the whole family.

"CLARKSON, N. Y., Nov. 1892. — "I have used Gilmore's Aromatic Wine in my family, and for a debilitated system there is nothing to equal it in restoring vigor and strength, and for female weakness it stands without a rival. I most heartily recommend it to all who may be suffering from chronic malaria or biliousness." —Rev. F. J. Whitney. All druggists sell Gilmore's Aromatic Wine at $1.00 per bottle.

UP THE MIDLAND.

Milk from Wayne County, Pa.—Track Scales at Hancock Junction—The Blue Stone King's Collapse—Railroad Improvements at Rockland—Wasting Money at the Fish Hatchery—Livingston Manor White Caps—The Sipple Award—Sale of a Creamery.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—About 150 cans of milk are now sent from Wayne county, Pa., over the O. and W. The portion of that county through which the Scranton Branch runs is natural grass land, and there is hardly any limit to the milk that can be produced from it, and that too of excellent quality.

—When the proposed extension of the O. and W. is made to Napanoch, where the State Reformatory is being built, it will add not less than 200 more cans of milk to the shipments over that road.

—New scales are being put in the track at Hancock Junction by which the exact weight of all cars loaded with coal can be obtained That station is now one of a great deal of importance, but its great distance from the village does not help Hancock-on-the Erie to any great extent.

—John F. Kilgour, the once noted stone king on the Erie, has only operated along the O and W. for the past summer, but has managed to make a grand "bust up" during that short time. The Delaware County Trust Company, of Walton, claims to hold enough real estate security to make it sound. The O. and W. stone men will go slow on John in the future.

—Rockland is to have a "Y," which means that with the opening of spring all the trains run expressly for the carrying of passengers to and from Sullivan county during the heated term will start from and end their runs from that station. So far as bringing money into the coffers of the company is concerned, Rockland station now outranks all others in Sullivan county, and it is but right that the railroad should give it some recognition in that direction. Ten thousand dollars will be expended on station buildings next spring, before summer travel begins.

—A great deal of money is being needlessly squandered at the fish hatchery up here, and if this is a fair sample of the way the fish business of the State is conducted the sooner we get rid of the present fish commissioners the better for the taxpayers. They bring water, or rather are trying to bring it, 1,300 feet in glazed sewer pipe from the Beaverkill river to the hatchery, and some of the distance the pipe is eight feet underground. Well! They got the pipe all laid and covered up again before they let the water in, only to find that the pipe leaked all along the line and that the water would not rise into the building. The earth had to be all thrown out again at great expense and the work of cementing the pipe the second time is now being done. If these fellows could only show half as much sense now, as they did stubbornness at the time they located where they have, the Rockland hatchery would have been a grand success long before this.

—The Livingston Manor White Caps are having a fine time playing pranks on some of the vicious and half witted people of that village. They have been doing this for a long time and have no doubt got a great deal of fun to themselves out of it. Some fine day these conservators of the Manor's morals will get a charge of shot to carry home with them, or a hole from a Winchester bullet, and then the laugh won't be all on one side after that.

—The general opinion is that the verdict of $1,400 in the case of Sipple against the Roscoe Water Company is excessive. The stream has always been considered a poor one for power, and Sipple paid only $700 for the entire plant when he bought it, and the whole establishment is only assessed for $360.

—Hench & Dromgold, the well known agricultural implement manufacturers, will establish a plant at Norwich, that will, in the no very distant future, add 500 to the population of that Chenango county metropolis.

—George Beakes, the well known creameryman, has bought the Union creamery at Sidney Centre. This is one of the rules of the Milk Producers' Union, and like that combine itself has been a costly experiment for all those who invested their hard earnings in it. Strange as it may seem, the American Agriculturist, a paper that ought to know better, is agitating another combine on the part of those who ship milk to New York city. The farmers have been fooled enough already with farmers' milk companies and producers' unions, and will let them severely alone in the future. There is no doubt but that our milk producers have reason to kick at the treatment they get at the hands of the Exchange, but all past revolts, from the way they have been managed, have only resulted in making matters worse instead of better. No sooner do a few would be leaders in milk reform get a band of farmers together than they think of climbing into office on their votes. The farmers of these milk producing counties are to be pitied, but their constant prayer in future should be "preserve us from the milk agitators unless they should prove more competent to manage our business in the future than in the past." Ingratitude and treachery are the two extreme of the milk agitators' procession. You have seen all that is worth staying for when the band and the gaudy officials have gone by.

To Sing in a Brooklyn Church—Personal Items—A Hallowe'en Party.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—Miss Carrie Howland has returned from an extended visit to Brooklyn. She has secured a position to sing in a church in that city.

—Mrs. R M Stratton is spending a week in New York city.

—Miss May Miller entertained her friends at a musical, last Tuesday evening.

—Mr. J. Jacobs, of Ellenville, visited his daughter, Mrs. Theo. Miller, last week.

A HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

—Miss Emma Miller gave a Hallowe'en party to about thirty of her young friends, Wednesday evening. Middletown, Goshen and New York were well represented. Dancing and Hallowe'en games were enjoyed by all. The gay costumes of the young ladies and gentlemen made a very attractive picture. Miss Emma Miller wore a fancy costume of yellow silk, trimmed with black lace, and entertained her friends in a charming manner. Miss Etta Smith wore a red silk gypsy gown, with a black velvet Eton jacket jacket, trimmed with spangles, and helped Miss Miller to receive and entertain her friends. Miss Estelle Miller wore an empire gown of yellow silk and green velvet; Miss Gertrude Heysler, white mull; Miss Louise Heysler, light blue and red, Miss Gertrude Jacobs, of Middletown, an empire gown of white silk, Miss Call, of New York, light blue silk; Miss Massey, of Middletown, black silk: Mrs. Miller, red silk and black velvet; Miss Eva Massey, of Middletown, light green mull. Messrs. Harry Fredericks and Albert Wilkin were dressed alike, and their costumes though rather startling, certainly attracted the attention of the many pretty girls. Messrs. Grant Terwilliger and Curtis Conkling, of Middletown, were also attired in attractive costumes The house was beautifully decorated with yellow chrysanthemums. Parker's orchestra furnished the music.
